1970 Kingston High School May Queen and Her Court

5 Americans Die in Counterattack

SAIGON (UPI)—Communist troops launched their second major counterattack against U.S. forces in Cambodia today, killing five Americans and wounding 14. They were reported to have broken into Cambodia's second largest city, Kompong Cham.

The Cambodian government issued a plea for arms and ammunition to 11 other Asian and Pacific nations in Djakarta and sought immediate South Vietnamese troop reinforcements for Kompong Cham, under siege 50 miles northeast of Phnom Penh.

These developments coincided with the U.S. military command's announcement that it had ended one American thrust into Cambodia, into the Se San region 230 miles north of Saigon, and pulled out an estimated 5,000 troops, leaving about 10,000 U.S. soldiers still involved in the cross-border offensive.

About 200 North Vietnamese this morning attacked some of those troops at an American artillery base in their second major assault since the Allies crossed the border 16 days ago. Spokesmen said five GIs were killed and 14 wounded against Communist losses of eight dead.

The attack at 2:45 a.m. came against Artillery Base Ranch, 90 miles north of Saigon and a mile from where Communist troops in their first major counterattack two days ago killed one American and wounded eight. Ranch was established only Friday.

UPI correspondent Robert C. Miller reported from Phnom Penh that Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops had broken into Kompong Cham and were fighting Cambodian troops in the streets. The city has been under shelling attack for the past three days.

Military sources said the guerrillas captured Tonle Bet across the Mekong River from Kompong Cham and were trying to encircle the city to cut off its supply link with Phnom Penh. They blew up a bridge two miles south of the city on Highway 7 to the capital.

Kompong Cham is a vital commercial center, with tobacco and rubber plants swelled to capacity at harvest time. Several hundred Vietnamese refugees are believed to be waiting there for South Vietnamese gunboats to take them home on the river.

The commander of a South Vietnamese armored column that has driven to within three miles of the Cambodian capital, Gen. Do Cao Tri, said he had received a request to send men immediately to bolster the Cambodian defenders at Kompong Cham.

A couple of long time adversaries—John C. Stennis, D. Miss., and J. William Fulbright, D. Ark., clashed on the senate floor over the U. S. military incursion into Cambodia. Story page 14.

Tri's men have cleared Highway 1 between Saigon and Phnom Penh, opening the way for truck convoys to take the Cambodians arms and ammunition from Saigon and to haul Vietnamese refugees home on the return trip.

The Cambodian fighting cost the United States another helicopter Friday, the 16th of the cross-border offensive, when ground fire brought down a small troop transport, killing one American and wounding six.

These losses, coupled with the casualties suffered at Artillery Base Ranch this morning, brought to 138 the number of U.S. troops killed and to 542 the number wounded in the Cambodian campaign.

Viet Cong and North Vietnamese losses were reported at 7,519, with South Vietnamese casualties listed as 542 dead and 1,841 wounded. The Allies weapons, 2,730 tons of rice, 13 have reported capturing 12,167 tons of medicine and 363 tons of munitions.

The U.S. command's announcement of the end of the American part in the thrust into the Se San salient said about 1,500 South Vietnamese troops remained in the area after the withdrawal of U.S. 4th Infantry Division troops.

A delayed report from headquarters listed five Americans and two South Vietnamese killed in the crash of a helicopter on the South Vietnamese side of the border Thursday. The cause of the accident was laid to mechanical failure.

Communist troops in South Vietnam attacked a unit of the 101st Airborne Division on the northern coast during the night and four U.S. troops were reported killed and 30 wounded. Military spokesmen said guerrilla casualties were not determined in the attack.

Construction Workers March

Deaths of Two Students Triggers More Protests

By United Press International

Police gunfire which killed two persons and injured 15 others at Jackson (Miss.) State College has triggered new protests on some college campuses.

Other schools remained in turmoil or under the uneasy peace of National Guard and police patrols today as demonstrations over the deaths of four students at Kent State University and U.S. military involvement in Cambodia ended their second week.

Baltimore police used tear gas to try to break up a crowd of more than 500 Morgan State College students Friday night and three predominantly black schools closed Friday in protest against the shootings at Jackson State.

About 600 National guardsmen patroled the Ohio University campus and downtown Athens, Ga., today as students evacuated the closed campus. The troops, with 900 more standing by in armories, were called Friday to quell violent demonstrations over the Kent State killings.

At Carbondale, Ill., where Guardsmen have been called to the Southern Illinois University campus twice in the last week, an explosion in an apparent makeshift bomb factory injured three black SIU students.

Police said they found unexploded dynamite, dynamite caps, a timing device, several guns and Black Panther literature in the off-campus house

One of the students was in critical condition today.

Later, the SIU board of trustees voted to keep the school closed until the summer term. Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie said the school had been "brought to its knees" and the trustees had "no alternative but to keep the university closed." Students had voted earlier to keep the school closed.

"I believe strongly that we cannot use bayonets to keep colleges open," Ogilvie said.

Guardsmen were still on standby alert at the campus.

Gov. Marvin Mandel invoked executive powers to keep the University of Maryland campus open despite the violent attempts by 3,000 to 4,000 students to shut it down.

Morgan State and Bowie State Colleges in Maryland and Knoxville (Tenn.) College, all predominantly black schools, closed Friday in honor of the victims at Jackson State. University of Chicago President Edward H. Levi scheduled a memorial service for the weekend "because of the tragedy . . ."

In Seattle, University of Washington President Charles E. Odegaard ordered the campus closed Monday in "mourning for all these young Americans who are the casualties of a new violence that is touching their lives."

Police and guardsmen halted a march by 300 demonstrators in Athens, Ga., Friday night and arrested 200 of them when they ignored orders to disperse. The group, largely black but including many white University of Georgia students, were protesting recent racial violence in the South.

A Start in June

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

A June 1 start for construction of the new city hall in Broadway East looks like a safe bet with formal contract signings between the city and the five low bidders set for early next week.

Alserman Michael S. Perry (D-Seventh Ward), chairman of the Council's City Hall Committee, notified the five bidders on Wednesday that they had been accepted as the "lowest responsible bidders" on the city hall project.

George H. Swart of Kingston was the low bidder on general construction at $604,959. John V. Warren of Rensselaer was low bidder on the automatic sprinkler system at $13,665, R.J. Welsh and Son of Saugerties was low bidder on the plumbing contract at $43,000. Bank Brothers of Accord was low bidder on the heating and ventilation contract at $72,100 and Timmons Elex Electric of Kingston was low bidder on the electric contract at $129,868.

Formal contract signing will take place in the presence of the city's corporation counsel, Aaron E. Klein and the architect for the new city hall, Albert E. Milliken.

The city approved a $900,000 bond issue for the construction of the new city hall in Broadway East in June of last year. Of that amount, $22,622 has already been spent on architect's fees, leaving $877,378.

The Council agreed to pay the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency $23,900 for the slightly more than four acres of land at the corner of Broadway and Meadow street at its May meeting. The urban renewal agency advertised its agreement with the council on May 9.

There is a 10-day waiting period which ends May 19 after which, according to urban renewal director James G. Connors, "They (the city) can have that land anytime they want it."

Mayor Francis R. Koenig is expected to make an announcement concerning the financing of the new building shortly after the formal contract signing.

It is expected to take between 14 and 18 months to complete construction on the 25,000 square foot building.

National Guard Moves Out for Camp Drum

Saugerties Churches To Hear State Guest

SAUGERTIES

The annual meeting of the Saugerties Area Council of Churches will be held at the St. Paul's Lutheran Church, West Camp, Monday, at 6 p.m. Each of the member churches of the Council may have additional members of their congregation attend the meeting.

The meeting is being held at the St. Paul's Lutheran Church in conjunction with the observance of their 260th Anniversary as a Church. Special speaker for the dinner will be the Rev. Theodore L. Conklin, executive Secretary of the New York State Council of Churches. The Rev. Mr. Conklin has been active among the churches of New York State for many years. He has given great attention to the Faith and Life Commission of the State Council of Churches, working as an advisor to the Legislative Commission. His efforts, as well as the work of others, resulted in the building of the Inter-Church Center for the New York State Council of Churches in Syracuse. This structure now houses the work of the State Council of Churches as well as the Administrative Offices of many denominations of our State.

The Rev. Mr. Conklin has most recently been working in the area of Drug Abuse in order to stimulate the churches of the State to assist in this growing problem of our youth. He was active in the recent convocation of Governor Rockefeller which called together clergy of all faiths in order to consider Drug Abuse and its prevention in our State.

Presiding at the meeting will be the Rev. Orville Jay Hines, president of the Saugerties Area Council of Churches. The dinner will be served by the ladies of the West Camp Lutheran Church. The newly elected officers for the coming year will be installed. They include the Rev. Robert Hess, president; the Rev. William Baudendistel, first vice president; the Rev. Richard Darling, second vice president; Robert Myers, secretary; and R. Earle Haley, treasurer.

A report of the work of the Council of Churches in Housing will be made and plans for the coming year will be presented at this meeting.

NEW PASTOR—The Rev. Joseph G. Bailey recently assumed the pastorate of Clinton Avenue United Methodist Church. Formerly pastor of Warwick United Metthodist Parish, he named to the local post replacing the Rev. William A. Studwell. Active in community projects, he served as co-chaplain of the Raymond Hose Company and director of Human Relations Commission in the Town of Warwick. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

Pastor Attends Ecumenical Meet

SAUGERTIES

The Rev. William Baudendistel, pastor of the Saugerties United Methodist Church, Washington Avenue and Post Street, and his wife, will attend the Inter-Confessional Conference on Religion in the United States, Tuesday and Wednesday, May 26 and 27.

The Conference will be held at the Graymoor Ecumenical Institute, Garrison, a branch of the Franciscan Friars of the Atonement which initiates, studies and promotes the ecumenical involvement and activities of the Society. Among the consultants to the Society are members of other denominations, including a consultant from Pittsburgh Theological Seminary, and the World Council of Churches.

The two-day Conference will focus on current issues of concern to all Christian laymen and ministers.

Evangel Series Set at Tivoli

TIVOLI

The Rev. Osterhoudt Phillips of Mt. Pleasant, who is the director of the Faith For This Day Radio Broadcast, and pastor of the Mt. Tremper Reformed Church will conduct an evangelistic campaign at the Faith Tabernacle, Main Street, Tivoli, beginning Sunday, May 17, and running nightly except Friday, May 22, to Sunday, May 24.

All services will be at 7:30 p.m. The Faith Tabernacle is the former Methodist Church and is now under the supervision of the Teen Challenge Institute of Missions of Rhinebeck.

Special music will be offered nightly by students of the Teen Challenge Bible School as well as testimonies by former drug addicts.

The services are open to the public.

Confirmation Rites For 2 City Churches

KINGSTON

A special service of Confirmation will be held on Sunday at the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, Wurts and Rogers Streets at which young people from both Redeemer and St. Paul's Church will be received into adult membership in the church. This traditional Pentecost event is scheduled for 3 p.m. followed by a reception in the assembly room of the church for the young people and their parents.

Included in the group are the following confirmands from Redeemer Church, Debra Acker, Scott Anderson, Jeffrey Berryann, Heidi Burger, Nancy Burger, Susan Carlzon, Mark Connolly, Damon Crespino, Joyce Dillon, Stuart Erickson, Edward Fox, Joseph Gaddis, Susan Glass, Jeffery Hamsher, Robin Jolin, Walter Kemp, Alan Lenza, Cynthia Lowe, Mallory Markle, Gregory Roland, Wayne Ruger, Donald Ryan, Maureen Ryan, Michelle Ryan, Minna Ryan, Dawn Sleight, John Sohm, Pamela Thomas, Lori Van Buren, Lynn Wallace, Janet Wolf.

Also, from St. Paul's Church, Susan Alsdorf, Elizabeth Salzmann, Leann Schussler and Debra Wolfersheim. These young people are included in this service since St. Paul's Church is without a pastor.

Officiating at the service will be the Rev. David C. Gaise, DD who will also preach the confirmation sermon on the topic, God's Gift of Grace. Gary La Croix will assist in the service.

Choral music for the festival event will include the anthem "O For a Faith" by Bitgood, sung by the senior choir of Redeemer under the direction of J. Anthony Hummel Jr., accompanied by Mrs. Lester E. Decker at the organ.

There will be a nursery during the service, in the annex behind the church on Rogers Street.

Billie Burke Dies at 84; Starred in Ziegfeld Follies

BILLE BURKE

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Billie Burke, dead at 84, considered her "most important role" her 18-year marriage to master showman Florenz Ziegfeld.

When she met Ziegfeld in 1914 she was a sensation on Broadway and the London stage. Ziegfeld, who died in 1932, once described his red-haired wife as "one of the 10 most beautiful women of all time."

Upon his death, she turned to movies where she was acclaimed as an enchanting, madcap comedienne. She was active in films for nearly three decades.

Miss Burke, whose home was in suburban Brentwood, died Thursday of natural causes. Her family announced her death Friday. She had been in ill health for some time.

She may be best remembered for her portrayal of "the good witch of the East" in the late Judy Garland's classic starmaking film, "The Wizard of Oz."

Often she was the wealthy, fluttery matron who didn't really know where the money came from and had no concept of adversity. Her performances were refreshing to Depression-era audiences.

She had been inactive since 1960.

Miss Burke, who married Ziegfeld at the peak of his career as the creator of the "Ziegfeld Follies," never seemed to mind her husband's extravagance.

"He spent with a flourish, just like he did everything else," she said. "But he had impeccable taste. Very few showmen of today have the good taste Flo had." Ziegfeld, however, died owing a fortune in debts.

Granquist Dies, Ran Gas Station On Clinton Ave.

SAWKILL

Arthur C. Granquist, 62, of RD 2, Box 81, Kingston, died suddenly in this city on Friday.

Mr. Granquist was the former owner of the Esso station, Art's Esso Service Center on Clinton Avenue, died of an apparent heart attack.

He recently sold his property to the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency and retired. He collapsed while working on the lawn of St. Ann's Church in Sawkill at 12:20. Doctor's Ambulance took him to the Kingston Hospital where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

Mr. Granquist was a member of St. Ann's Church, St. Ann's Holy Name Society, Sawkill Fire Department, the Catholic Bowlers Association and the No-Can-Do-League. Born in Elizabeth, N. J., he was the son of the late Aaron and Christina Larsen Granquist.

Surviving are his wife, the former Mary K. Maguth; a daughter, Mrs. Brian (Arlene) Steeves of Sawkill; two sons, Arthur J. Granquist of Atlanta, Ga. and Gregory L. Granquist of Sawkill; a brother, Joseph L. Granquist of New York City; a sister, Mrs. Christina Olson of Yonkers; and seven grandchildren. Several nieces and nephews also survive. Funeral will be held from the Henry J. Bruck Funeral Home, 27 Smith Avenue, on Monday at 10:30 a.m., thence to St. Ann's Church, Sawkill, where a high Mass of requiem will be offered for the repose of his soul at 11. Friends will be received today from 7 to 9 p.m. and Sunday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

Cornell Street Fire Is Doused

KINGSTON

Kingston firemen responded to a fire in the Morris Bag and Junk Company on Cornell Street this morning at 4:28 a.m. and managed to keep damage to a minimum.

Firemen discovered a small fire in the rear corner of a frame building and another fire on the loading dock of a concrete block building. There was slight scorching in the frame building and minor damage to the door and overhanging roof of the block building.

The fire was determined to be of incendiary origin and is being investigated by city police. Recall was at 5:40 a.m. There were eight pieces of equipment on the scene under the command of Deputy Chief Hugh Greer.

Ranch Owners Arrested After Horse Dies

Francis and Josephine O'Bryon, owners of the Lime Rock Ranch in Cedar Grove off Route 32, were charged with violations of the state agricultural law by officials from the Ulster County ASPCA Friday afternoon.

Arnold Adams of the ASPCA went to the ranch on a complaint from neighbors yesterday to find a horse lying in the front of the barn. The horse later died. Adams said that six other horses were in the barn, all in "bad shape."

The O'Bryons posted bail before Saugerties Justice Calvin Cody and will appear for trial on Wednesday.

11 Motorists Cited

Police rounded up 11 motorists on Thursday and cited them for operating motor vehicles without inspection stickers. Three were also charged with other vehicle and traffic violations.

Kathleen McGinnis, 23, of 150 Minturn Street, Port Ewen, was summoned for unlicensed operation of a motor vehicle. Irene Rosenkranse, 24, of 86 Meadow Court High Falls, was charged with inadequate muffler on her car, and Kathy Klonowski, 19, of 77 Foxhall Avenue, was booked for having no tail lamps on the car she was driving.

The summonses were returnable before City Judge Hubert A. Richter.

Olympic Congress Expels South Africa

AMSTERDAM (UPI) — The International Olympic Committee wound up its 69th International Congress by expelling South Africa from the organization because of the country's apartheid policies.

South Africa, which earlier this year was banned from the Davis Cup tennis competition, was voted down 35-28 with three abstentions in a secret ballot Friday to mark the final day of the Congress. The Supreme Council of African Sport, which presented the charges against South Africa, had threatened an African boycott of the 1972 Munich Olympics if the Republic was not expelled.

The next international step expected to be taken against South Africa will be to press the Cricket Council to cancel a scheduled cricket tour of England by the Republic this summer.

The week-long Congress also was makred by the awarding of the 1976 Summer and Winter Games to Montreal and Denver, respectively, and an extension of Games' president Avery Brundage's running war with the International Ski Federation (FIS). Brundage said today there was nothing personal with regard to his attitude toward Alpine skiing.

"I have nothing against the sport, but FIS delegates have been forced to admit that there are under-the-counter payments made to top men. As long as this state of affairs exists, I shall be against its inclusion in the Olympics," he said.

The IOC and FIS will get together between now and the next Congress at Luxemburg, Sept. 13-18, next year to see if a compromise formula can be arrived at. FIS President Marc Hodler, who remains adamant that "brand names will be displayed," plans to tell his federation that manufacturers should pay money direct to national federations. The proceeds would be used to further the sport within the country.

This should prove acceptable to the IOC as it means the individual will not benefit.

The eligibility commission were unable to present its report for discussion but Brundage said, "The executive now has the report and will discuss it at length before we convene again in Luxemburg.

"It is of vital importance and a matter of the utmost urgency. We hope that from it we will be able to extract a paragraph which will be written into every federation rule on the question of amateurism."

Montreal edged Moscow for the Summer Games nomination on the second ballot after Los Angeles failed to survive the first count.

Denver edged past Sion, Switzerlqnd, on the third vote after Vancouver, Canada and Tampere, Finland, had been eliminated.

HAMMERIN' HANK!—Hank Aaron picked up hit number 2996, left, and hit number 2997—a homer—right, as he paced Atlanta to a 3-1 win over the Reds here last night. When Aaron gets hit 3000 it will put him in a group shared by only eight others in baseball. The Braves' outfielder should hit the mark this weekend. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Seaver One-Hits Phillies

By The UPI

The New York Mets' "ration program" soon may find them moving back into the National League's Eastern Division lead.

On Wednesday, Gary Gentry limited Chicago to one hit as the defending world champions beat the Cubs. Friday, Tom Seaver duplicated the feat, allowing only a third inning single by Mike Compton as the Mets sent the Philadelphia Phillies to their eighth straight loss, 4-0.

The victory, Seaver's seventh against one loss, moved the Mets to within a half game of division leading Chicago, which lost to the St. Louis Cardinals 1-0.

Seaver struck out 15 batters to raise his major league lead to 88 as he pitched the Mets' third one-hitter in less than a month. Nolan Ryan recorded a one-hitter earlier this season.

In other National League play, Atlanta edged Cincinnati 3-1, Montreal nipped Pittsburgh 2-1, Los Angeles whipped San Francisco 11-5 and San Diego outslugged Houston 10-8, in 10 innings.

In American League action, Baltimore beat Washington 4-3 in 11 innings, Cleveland blanked Boston 3-0, New York beat Detroit 4-1, Chicago downed Kansas City 9-3 and California edged Oakland 5-4. The Minnesota at Milwaukee game was rained out.

Seaver, who pitched despite a bad cold, said his higher strikeout total this season comes from "stamina built up over the last three years from maturity and experience." He extended his shutout string against the Phillies to 34 innings while Joe Foy and Jerry Grote had run-producing singles to highlight the Met attack.

Henry Aaron homered and doubled to draw within three hits of the coveted 3,000-hit mark and Rico Carty extended his hitting streak to 31 games with two singles as the Braves beat the Reds.

Aaron doubled in the sixth inning and scored on Carty's single to tie the score at 1-1 and his 15th homer with a man on in the eighth for the margin of victory. Jim Nash recorded his fifth victory for the Braves.

Dan McGinn pitched a five-hitter for his second straight victory as a starter as the Expos nipped the Pirates. Montreal scored both its runs in the sixth on singles by John Bateman and Ron Fairly.

Jose Cardenal's broken bat single drove in Joe Hague from third base in the seventh inning with the game's only run as the Cardinals edged the Cubs. Cardenal's game winning hit came after singles by Hague and Mike Shannon, his first hit of the season, and a fielder's choice. Mike Torrez and Billy McCool combined for the shutout.

Two-run homers by Willie Crawford and Tom Haller highlighted a six-run first inning that carried the Dodgers past the Giants. Wes Parker also homered for Los Angeles. Willie Mays hit the 607th and 608th homers of his career, each with a runner on, to account for four Giants' runs.

Nate Colbert's two-run homer in the 10th inning gave the Padres their victory over Houston and snapped the Astros' five-game winning streak. Colbert's homer, his 11th, came after Ed Spiezio's pinch-hit double.

Owners to Renew Offer

NEW YORK (AP) — The baseball players and owners still are without a basic contract and there are indications that the squabble may continue until the Curt Flood case runs its course.

Flood's antitrust suit against major league baseball is due to open in New York Tuesday. The former St. Louis Cardinal centerfielder refused to accept the trade that sent him to Philadelphia last winter and is challenging the structure of the game.

The players rejected owner's contract proposal by an overwhelming 509-89 vote earlier in the week. On Friday, the major leagues voted to renew the same offer.

"I don't know what purpose there can be in renewing an offer already rejected so emphatically," said Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players' Association.

"The clubs believe their proposal is entirely fair and generous and represents significant gain for the players," said the two league presidents in a statement issued after Friday's meeting.

After their statement had been released, the owners went back into joint session. Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, attempting to stay away from player-owner neogtiations in which he might eventually have to make a decision, conducted the joint meeting after passing up the early session.

In a news conference after the meeting, Kuhn was asked what reaction he expected from the players.

"I think they all want to play ball," said the commissioner. "I don't anticipate any confrontation."

Miller called the owners' statement "self-serving." "They say they think they were fair," he added. "The players believe the opposite."

So what happens next?

Miller said the players probably would propose another talk with the owners' committee. He made no threats of action although there has been talk by some player representatives of a one-day baseball moratorium on a Saturday when a Game of the Week is televised nationally.

As basic matters, including the controversial reserve clause, are involved in the Flood case, it was the thinking in some quarters that the stalemate might continue until the owners and players see which way the wind is blowing in Flood's trial.

Commander Off Again

BALTIMORE, Md (UPI)—Dust Commander, set out to prove today that his Kentucky Derby victory of two weeks ago was not a fluke when he took on 13 rivals in the 95th running of the $203,800 Preakness Stakes at Pimlico.

The trim little chestnut colt pulled away to a five-length victory at Churchill Downs in the first of the Triple Crown classics. Yet the son of Bold Commander failed to scare many of his rivals.

Seven defeated Kentucky Derby starters were back for another crack at him with their handlers confident their horses could reverse the result. Alibis were a dime a dozen following the Kentucky Derby.

Six other 3-year-olds who passed up the Kentucky Derby swelled the Preakness field to 14, the biggest since 1928 when 18 started in the 1 3-16 mile classic. They shoot for a winner's purse of $151,300 with $30,000 to second, $15,000 to third and $7,500 to fourth.

Post time is 5:40 p.m. (EDT) with CBS handling the race on television and radio.

Owner Robert Lehmann, who paid only $6,500 for Dust Commander, had to contribute $12,800 to the purse to start him in the Preakness. Lehmann failed to nominate the little colt originally for $100 and had to ante up $10,000 supplementary fee as well as $2,000 to enter and start.

Dust Commander was listed as favorite on the program at 5 to 2 but Raymond M. Curtis's My Dad George, winner of the Flamingo States and the Florida Derby but second in the Kentucky Derby, drew heavy support.

Mike Manganello, who kept Dust Commander on the rail throughout most of the Kentucky Derby to save ground, once again was to ride the little chestnut who came out of that race with a wrenched ankle. Ray Broussard was assigned to My Dad George.

"Sure we were lucky to get through in the Kentucky Derby," admitted trainer Don Combs of Dust Commander. "I hope we continue to be lucky and his ankle is fine."

The other Kentucky Derby starters entered in the Preakness were: High Echelon, who finished third; Naskra, who was fourth; Silent Screen, fifth; Admiral's Schield, sixth; Personality, eighth; and Robin's Bug, tenth. High Echelon and Personality ran as an entry.

The newcomers were: Bazkashi, Sir Wiggle, Oh Fudge, Plenty Old, Hark The Lark and Stop Time. Hark The Lark and Stop Time were grouped in the "mutuel field."

Victory for Dust Commander would move him a notch closer to a sweep of the Triple Crown classics. The Belmont Stakes completes the series on June 6. Only eight horses, and none since Citation in 1948, have managed to wir all three races.

Lee Trevino Shares Lead

FORT WORTH (UPI)—Lee Trevino is always ready to play in the wind, and when the breezes began to blow strongly from the north over the Colonial Country Club course Friday Trevino and his 2-iron were prepared.

Trevino used that 2-iron time after time to keep the ball low in the 30-mile winds and succeeded in shooting an even-par 70 for a 36-hole total of four-under-par 136 and a share of the halfway lead in the $125,000 Colonial National Invitation with fellow chatterbox Bob E. Smith and fellow Latin Roberto DeVicenzo.

Smith turned in a 69 Friday to back up his 67 of Thursday over the 7,142-yard, par 35-35—70 Colonial course, and DeVicenzo had a 33-33—66 on a day that was far from conductive to below-par golf.

The pins were tucked away into the corners of the greens, and a non-prevailing wind brought in by a cold front made every shot tough to figure.

Smith, Trevino and DeVicenzo found themselves a mere stroke ahead of a couple of Texans who also are familiar with the winds in this part of the country—Miller Barber and Homero Blancas. Both tacked on 68s to their opening day 69s.

One more stroke back, all alone at two-under-par 138, was Art Wall, who is in the midst of something of a comeback, having put together four fine rounds at the Houston Champions International last week before coming to Colonial.

Frank Beard, Bob Charles and Rod Funseth were at one-under-par 139.

Ben Hogan, playing in front of the home town crowd in only his second tournament in three years, fell victim to the winds and came in with a 77 for a six-over 146 that just made the 147 cutoff point for the final two rounds.

Twenty-seven golfers turned in below-par figures on a record-breaking par assault on Thursday, but only 11 could match that fete on Friday.

"The wind was pretty high from the north," Trevino said, "and I used a two-iron to control the ball on a lot of holes. Anytime you start going against the wind and get in the rough you are in trouble."

Hitters Still Dominate City Slow Pitch League

The hitters, as usual dominated action in the Kingston Slow Pitch League last night under cloudy skies at Block Park and Hasbrouck Park.

Bud Lucas cleared the fence at Block Park with a basses loaded home run to lead Bloomington Inn to a 20-5 rout over Lamoreaux Mobil.

Tom Cralin blasted a pair of homers for Kingston Hospital in a 15-3 victory over Hucktrol.

Dick Dieter, burley first basemen for the Daily Freeman, came in late in the game to hit a booming blast to left center field but it fell in vain as the scribes suffered their first loss of the season a 13-8 shellacking by the Braves. The Braves jumped on Freeman fielders for nine runs in the second inning to put the game out of reach. Seven errors were committed in that inning by the losers.

In the other game scheduled at Block Park, Onteora Boosters forfeited to Hurley Haven.

Jake Smith and Ardy Perpetula, batting in the number two and three slots for Bloomington Inn, socked four hits each, including a pair of doubles a piece. Frank Fiore came through with a triple for the winners.

Jim Williams homered for Kingston Hospital as did Bill Lazette for Hocktrol.

John Fiore and Andy Juhl tripled for the Braves as Tommy Lyle slammed a three-bagger for the Freeman.

KHS Squad Beats Hudson

KINGSTON

Kingston High School's tennis team won their eighth match of the season, posting a 7-0 sweep over visiting Hudson High. The Maroon netmen are now 8-1 on the year and will today in the sectional tourney at Clarkstown.

In the first singles, Pete Boyd downed Rich Korvek, 6-4, 6-1. He was followed by Jim Corsones who defeated Harry Schmitzer, 7-5, 7-5, Pete Fowler over Steve Adams, 6-4, 6-2, Rob Kline over Tony Nero, 6-2, 7-5 and Rich Salzman who beat Dave Perlonen, 6-2, 6-2.

In the doubles, Boyd and Corsones topped Korvek and Schmitzer, 6-0, 6-1, while Salzman and Kline downed Adams and Nero, 6-2, 4-6, 6-4.

Benham Leads SHS Victory

SAUGERTIES

Steve Benham hit a 44 for low scoring honors as the Saugerties High School golf team downed visiting Red Hook, 182-215, in a Dutchess County Scholastic League match at the par-36 Sawyerkill Country Club. The match was played Friday. Saugerties is now 4-3 overall and 2-1 in the league.

The Sawyers go against Our Lady of Lourdes Tuesday at College Hill in Poughkeepsie.

Dennis Stencen was second at 45, Paul Trice had a 46 and Don Treat a 47 for the winners. Bob Fowler was low man for the losers with a 50. Kevin Snyder had 54, Jim O'Toole 55, and Jim Malley 56.

Onteora Girls Score Victory

MARLBORO

Onteora High School's girls' softball team won their first contest of the season with an opening day victory over host Marlboro, 13-8. Bonnie Baker was the winning pitcher while Mary Colombo took the loss. Lorelei Heidenstrom, Holly Heppner, Lisa Schroeder, Mary McGrath and Pat Adels all had two hits apiece for the winners.

The next game for the Indians will be against Pine Bush on Monday.

Sawyers Defeat Foe

SAUGERTIES

After falling behind, 2-0 in the top of the first inning, the Sawyers of Saugerties High School exploded for three runs in their half of the initial stanza and went on to defeat visiting John Jay, 7-3, behind the five-hit pitching of Tom Cole yesterday.

Saugerties is 3-7 in Dutchess County Scholastic League competition, playing in the Central Section, and 5-9 overall. Cole has won all five contests for the Sawyers. The winners meet defending champion and current first place resident, Arlington, at the Admirals' field on Tuesday.

John Jay scored as John Belezie drew a walk and Jack Conte walked. Ken McMiller hit into a fielders choice with Belezie scoring on an error on the play. Stan Lynch walked, Bruce Gallagher flied out and Ken Prince singled in McMiller. Prince made the third out of the inning as he was nailed at second on the cut-off throw from the outfield.

Saugerties came storming back. Gerry Malgieri and Roch Lack drew walks from losing hurler Ron Defel. Frank Petramale singled to load the bases and Jeff Markle singled in Malgieri. Gary Silinovich picked up a run batted in as he walked to force Lack in with the tying run. Rich Koegel put the homeside ahead for keeps with a sacrifice fly that scored Petramale.

Koegel was the hitting star of the game for the winners as he drove in four runs and went two-for-three.

OCS Golfers Take Match

WOODSTOCK

Onteora High School's golf team got back on the winning track Friday with an 11½-½ victory over visiting Pine Bush on the par 35 Woodstock Country Club course. The Indians are now 1-1 in Ulster County Athletic League Competition and 5-1-1 overall.

Howie Gordon was medalist for the day with a one-over-par 36 to take three points from Jeff Decker, who hit a 48. Gordon had eight pars and one bogey, that coming on the third hole, for his fine score.

Vlad Hoyt fired a 39, also good for three points over Mark Schultz, who had a 57. John Buoymaster also shot a 39, but gave up a half-point to Jim McIntyre of the visitors, who carded a 46. Scott Dean shot a 41, high score for the winners, but won three points as his opponent, Jack O'Brien hit 55.

In Junior Varsity action, the Indians beat the Bushmen, 12-0 on the strength of Bob Henderson's fine 39. Bill Bradley hit 41, Tom Peekema 43 and Drew Horvath 44 for the Junior Indians.

In this melancholy 1970 trout season, a 40-year Mt. Tremper resident has seen nothing but bag limits of fish at the end of the rainbow.

While many lament the unhappy harvests of the season and wonder if a later opener wouldn't help, Kenneth Umhey, an IBM employee, goes merrily along catching his bag limit and feasting on rainbows.

His sister-in-law, Marion Umhey, who edits the Ulster County Townsman in Woodstock, tipped us off on the genius of this home grown Izaak Walton.

FOR THE RECORD, Umhey has landed Rainbows measuring 23, 20, 19, 18 inches in that order and a mess of others to go with a "pretty big brown," that measured close to 18 inches.

"I'm using wet flies now," says Umhey, who has been fishing the mainstream and the Phoenicia area since his bare-foot days. He wouldn't say so himself, but his sister-in-law leaves us with the impression he has been catching the limit since 1942. He ties his own flies, nymphs and is steeped in woodcraft and fishing lore that only a genesis in the woodlands can develop in a human being.

THE STREAMS ARE looking "pretty good" these days to Umhey, who inflicts his heaviest damage on the trout population in the main stream. He hasn't done the reservoir very much this year and only a few times in 1969.

He is not impressed by arguments for a later starting season for trout. "The number of fish always seem to come out about the same," he points out.

Umhey thinks the stocking program is working very well. "I think a few more fish should be stocked in the small streams in the fall, after the regular season." he suggests. Some of the fish carry over quite well, particularly the native Browns.

For the record, Umhey finds little to complain about the fishing season and the fishing setup. Would you, if you had been catching bag limits since 1942?

AT THIS TIME of the year, anglers everywhere are thinking about catching bass. Whether largemouth or smallmouth, old "inch for inch, pound for pound, the gamest fish that ever swims" is America's most popular game fish species.

And no wonder. For bass are found practically anywhere in the country and a certain amount of skill and patience is needed to catch them.

The most popular of the bass group, according to information sent out by the Mercury folks, is the largemouth bass. At home both in stream and lake, the bigger fish are almost always found in impoundments.

Smallmouth black bass, also found in lakes and streams, are distinguished from largemouth by the length of the lower jaw—it never comes beyond the eye when closed.

BASS ARE ACTUALLY members of the sunfish family. Like sunfish and bluegills, they make round spawning beds in shallow water. At this point, however, bass differs from many other fish. After the male has prepared the nest by using his tail as a sweep to clean all debris from small gravel, the female lays eggs which are then fertilized. Mama bass then leaves her progeny and the male bass begins the arduous task of guarding the nest.

The best time to catch bass is early in the season and again when the cooler weather of autumn has arrived. Both largemouth and smallmouth bass have big appetites. They eat water insects, minnows, crickets, grasshoppers, crayfish, hellgramites, frogs, small mamals, and almost anything within reach.

During the summer, bass feed the most in early morning and late evening. Largemouth bass like to feed in shallow water; smallmouth prefer to work gravel bars of swift streams or around underwater banks in the northern lakes.

CONSERVATION NOTES: A porcupine can destroy two trees in a single night and has been known to cause damage ranging from $10 to $100 per acre. Porkies feed largely on conifer bark and when they girdle a tree it dies . . . The neck of a bird has greater freedom of motion than that of a giraffe. In the tiny neck of a sparrow there are 14 vertebrae, in the swan's 23, while the neck of a giraffe has only seven. How about that!

Post Wins Tourney, UCCC 3rd

MONTICELLO Post Junior College of Waterbury, Conn., overcame a three-stroke deficit from opening round action to win the National Junior College Athletic Association's Region 15 Golf Championship staged Thursday at Terre Brae and completed yesterday at Kutsher's Country Club course.

The winners will now play in national championship at Miami, Florida.

The Post linksmen hit 326 the first day and finished with a 332 total over the 6700-yard, par-72, rain-swept course. Suffolk finished second at 323-346-669, while Ulster County Community College remained in third place with a total of 329-344-673. UCCC was the defending champion.

Nassau finished fourth at 340-349-689, followed by Orange CC 338-356, Farmingdale L. I. 351-352-703, New York CC 455-432-887 and Rockland, posting no score because of the team's players was forced to withdraw.

Greg Nadolny paced his squad to victory and was the medalist for the two-day affair with a total of 156. Greg carded a 75 the first day and hit a 40-41-81 for his total. OCCC's Bob Heins took second with 74-43-41-84-158, while Ted Vallo, last year's medalist, 41-38-79, low score for the day.

Other low scores were posted by: Pat Capalongo, Westchester 77-45-39-84-161; Scott Harris, Suffolk, 76-44-42-86-162; Carl Santoro, Post, 83-43-38-81-164; Jim Fenton, NYCCC, 80-43-41-84-164; Carl Kevin Capalbo, UCCC, 82-41-43-84-166; Dan Powell, U C C C, 76-46-45-91-167; Jim Andrisani, Suffolk, 80-46-41-87-167.

Ray Lindhorst posted the best score of the day for the Senators, hitting a 44-39-83. His total for the tourney was 173. Capalbo was low man for both days for UCCC with his 166 while Powell was next at 167.

Ulster finished the year with a 10-2 mark overall and a conference record of 4-1. Orange won the confernece with a 5-0 mark, while Dutchess County Community College was third at 3-2.

"This was a good season," said Coach Mike Perry. "The boys played well all year and it was very pleasant for me after a long, tedious basketball season. I want to thank Dr. Marty Kantor, golf chairman and Scotty Robertston, club pro, at our home course at Wiltwyck for their help and cooperation," said Perry.

KHS Drops First DUSO Match

KINGSTON Kingston High School's golf team suffered its first dual-DUSO League loss in four years yesterday as visiting Port Jervis stopped the Maroons' streak, 6½-5½, at the par-35 Twaalfskill course. The Kingston linksmen are now 7-2-2 overall and remain in first place in the DUSO with a 3-1 record.

Yesterday also marked a dubious first in the fine career of Kingston golfer Joe Bostic as it was also the first team loss in dual-DUSO competition that Bostic has played in. The Kingston star for the past four years turned in his usual fine performance, however, carding a 36 for three points over Rich Saul, who had a 41.

The Kingston team will take part in the sectional tourney at the par-72, 6615-yard Terre Brae course in Fallsburgh.

Doug Tatara hit a 40, but could only add ½ point to the Kingston total of his opponent, Mike Carroll, fired five pars, two birdies and two bogeys to hit an even par 35 and 2½ points.

Medalist for the day, Carrol won himself a steak dinner on his team as a reward for hitting par. Port honors all its par-hitters and breakers in this fashion.

Gary Spears provided the pivotal points as he fired a 42, good for three points for the winners over Kevin Conner-ton's 52. Mark Brown needed three points for a win and 2½ for a tie, but could manage but two with 44 against John Costic's 46.

"If the boys will play to their capabilities, I think we stand an excellent chance in the sectionals," said Maroon golf mentor Dick McCormick. "It's a long course and our conservative, down-the-middle swingers should do well. Today's loss hurt, but it's one of those things. All good things must come to an end sooner or later concluded the coach.

J.M. Stefanie Takes Big M

MONTICELLO J. M. Stefanie, a 5-year-old mare, see-sawed her way to victory Friday night to take the featured fourth race pace at Monticello Raceway under the guidance of her trainer, Sal Sparacino.

It was the first win this season for the daughter of Victory Dinamic by Victory Surety in her third time at the wire. Her two previous starts resulted in show positions.

Coming in to place behind J. M. Stefanie, after a head-to-head contest down the stretch, was J. M. John, Fred Heck the pilot. The third horse was Dag's Lady, driven by John Bedell.

The daily double combination at Monticello on Friday was 5-2, linking Kendelwood Rusty and Neb Revonah, to return exactly $57.00.

Elmer Kish and George Gilmour were the respective winning drivers.

It's only a few more days until the time that Monticello Raceway takes liberty with the calendar and changes next Wednesday to "Wins-day." On that evening next week, Monticello Raceway will be authorized to award two lucky patrons very substantial awards for their presence at the Sullivan County oval.

After depositing one half of a numbered ticket in the drop-box, all the potential winners will have to do is stick it out until immediately after the last race. Then two tickets will be drawn by president and general manager, Leon Greenberg. The first winner will receive a Channel Master 21-inch color TV set; the second will be given a mink stole.

Some time during the season there will be a grand prize of truly fabulous worth, to mark yet another innovation in New York State launched by its prime experimenter, the Mighty M.

Onteora Trackmen Romp Over Wallkill

BOICEVILLE Dave Snyder and Sandy King remained undefeated in dual competition, as Onteora Central High's track team trounced Wallkill High, 75-52, in an Ulster County Athletic League (UCAL track meet run here on a wet, heavy track).

Snyder extended his winning streak with a sweep of the 100 yards (10.8) and the 220 (24.3) in times that were not bad considering the going. His only defeat has come in the Hudson Invitational.

King, one of the top high school pole vaulters in the county, made it a perfect 7-0 when he vaulted 11 feet in his specialty. Miller and Kalish gave Onteora a clean sweep in that event.

Onteora won the medley relay with a team of Krein, Zoehfeld, Kriessman and Auzuaga, but had to forfeit the 880 relay when one of its runners ran out of his lane.

Bob Heinsman scored a double for the Blue Devils, winning the long jump with a leap of 19 feet, one inch and the triple jump at 38 feet, 4 inches.

The UCAL meet is scheduled next Wednesday at State University in New Paltz, if the facilities are available.

Shelightner Has 17 Ks in Esopus

PORT EWEN Art Shelightner of the Potter Brothers Yankees allowed only one hit and struck out 17 — one under maximum — to pitch his team to 17-2 victory over Hercules Braves, in the Town of Esopus Little League.

Meanwhile, Don Van Loan of the Lions Club Dodgers pitched a no-hitter, but allowed three runs, as the Dodgers outscored the Mets, 8-3.

Shelightner also collected two doubles for half of the Yankee hits. The lone Hercules safety went to Mike Bradley.

Van Loan fanned 13 and rapped a pair of singles and a double for Lions Club. Dave Patrick had a pair of two baggers.

The results:

Dodgers	200 024—8

Ulster LL Opens

LAKE KATRINE The Town of Ulster Little League will hold its opening day ceremonies Sunday, May 17, 1:30 p.m., at the Little League Field at Chambers Elementary School. All teams, min- and little league, are requested at the field in uniform no later than 1:15 p.m.

The program will consist of Benediction by the Rev. Wm. J. Amirault, St. Catherine Laboure R. C. Church, opening remarks by Edward Crosby, Lake Katrine Elementary School principal and an introduction of teams by Charles Kesick, president of the Town of Ulster Little League.

A minor and little league game will follow the ceremonies. The Ladies' Auxiliary will conduct a drawing after the fourth inning of the Little League game.

Non-Partisan Solution To Vietnam

The country has been embroiled for a number of years now over our role in Vietnam. The situation has been heightened by President Nixon's sending troops into Cambodia. While this added flames to the fire, the dissent goes much further back. The controversy was strong enough when Lyndon Johnson was in office for him to decide that he could not win again. The bitterness from the halls of Congress to protests in the street, have only served to further divide the country. So we are going to make a proposal which we concede is unusual, but we feel could bring this country together again.

We urge that President Nixon call a joint session of Congress for a vote on his Vietnam policy. The question will be: Shall the United States withdraw at once its military forces from Southeast Asia? That seems to be the burden of what the dissenters want.

If both the President and Congress will accept this method of achieving a consensus, the Vietnam question could be settled in a democratic way that would have to be accepted by all, including the dissidents.

There is ample, and recent, precedent for such action. In Aug. 7, 1964, after the Tonkin Gulf gunboat incident, the U.S. Congress met at the request of President Johnson, and approved what was officially called the Southeast Asia Resolution, but which was better known as the Tonkin Resolution. The Senate approved 88-2 and the House 416-0. If anything, there was less reason for that joint session than there is for one today. As the overwhelming votes of approval indicate, the country was of one mind. Partisan lines were thrown to the wind then, as they should be now.

President Nixon has made certain promises regarding the future role of the U.S. in Southeast Asia. There is no question that he has widened the scope of our participation, but he vows this will get us out of the war sooner, and still help maintain the troop withdrawal schedule. Violent widespread dissent in reaction to the Cambodian move has made it impossible for President Nixon to function in a normal manner.

Legislators on both sides of Congress question the President's ability to do what he says he will. But their protest, most of it being registered in speeches and statements, from the sidelines, is serving little more than to inflame the country's young people. The congressmen are providing no sense of direction as long as they debate the issue informally and outside the Capitol. It is time for Congress to share the responsibility for policy making in Vietnam.

If congressmen feel as strongly as they indicate, they will have the opportunity at a joint session to provide a meaningful record of how they stand as the Congress of the United States. It will be presumed that, as in all their deliberations, they will be representing the people, and their voice will be that of the people. Their vote will be nothing short of a mandate to the President which he would have no alternative but to follow.

When a 16-year-old told Arlington, Va., Juvenile Court Judge Berton V. Kramer that he was not a drug addict, but took drugs because he "wanted to do it," Kramer read him a lecture all youths should hear: "If you keep doing it, you'll be 16 years old as long as you live. To use your expression, if I 'did it,' it would be a little less dramatic because my life and personality are already formed. With drugs you'll never grow up. They won't let you."

"The trouble with impeaching Douglas is: who wants to go through trying to fill ANOTHER Supreme Court seat?!"

Henry J. Taylor Says

There's an Experience Gap

The respected College Poll (Greenwich, Conn.) operates through personal, face-to-face interviews on 100 campuses yielding a weighed cross-section of our seven million college population.

Its current finding is loaded to the gunwale with surprises. Most first-class lies have a firm foundation of truth, like margarine with 10 per cent butter. But the College Poll proves again the difference between appearance and actuality and how campus demonstrators can be one thing whereas the thinking of the student majority is another.

Moreover, instead of a generation gap there is, more truly, an experience gap.

We're a youth country. "I am youth. I am joy. I am freedom," said Peter Pan. That's America. Astoundingly, two of every five Americans are 17 or under. This means about 40 per cent of our entire population. And our youth is marrying earlier than ever before. Unlike the past, most graduate school students today are married. This, of itself, tends to dilute their all-out dedication to the university itself.

A record 55 per cent of our high school graduates now go on to college. Nearly a million young men and women will graduate next month with bachelors', and higher, degrees. More U.S. Negroes now go to college, and graduate, than the entire white college population in England.

But our college population has wandered into a mine field —one covered with soft, green grass and gentle, beautiful flowers, but a mine field nevertheless. Indisputably, the mine sowers are Moscow-controlled Communist guerrillas who go on this principle: if no disruption exists, invent it. And obviously, they are at this all over the world. Always and everywhere the Red brain trust aims at a nation's youth, mines the campuses and attacks the universities and all other stable institutions.

Along with these hard-core guerrillas the so-called New Left has demonstrated a political skill in manipulating student organizations and the employment of articulate pressures capable of blackmailing, discrediting and breaking orderly university government.

Accordingly, with the shutting of nearly half of all our colleges and universities last week their population is made to sound like protesting students in a barbers' college shouting, "Let's go out and cut somebody's ear off." But not in the College Poll.

It shows that some undergraduates do have a sense of the entire adult world waiting out there as one full of peculiar, heavy, creepy people you just couldn't trust. And, true, there also are some perpetual undergraduates in their uniform of conformity and their haystack heads who follow a life of drift and words. But the College Poll finds these to be a very small minority. Moreover, our students' protective armor against nonsense is astonishingly formidable.

The College Poll reveals that the nation's students want to stop feeling like passive victims of a variety of things. They want somebody to take an effective stand against all sorts of accumulated forces instead of opportunistically riding along with them. They are looking for men who have the wisdom, courage and convictions to have arrived at sets of principles and take a stand on principles. But who would ever know it?

The poll reveals that in the minds of all but a few "changing the system" does not mean destroying it. A full 86 per cent feel that direct participation in politics is important and they expect to devote time to it in later years, but only in ordinary ways.

Answering "Do you yourself believe you would ever run for a public office?" nearly 60 per cent of the college men said "yes." And the majority agreed that a man can rise to greater heights in political office if he is honest.

The poll showed that students would change the candidate-choosing methods. They would change the electoral college in principle. The poll revealed nearly total dissatisfaction with party politics and, clearly, an anti-party attitude. But it showed absolutely no reason to believe that any revolutionary ideas on overthrowing the American political system and our highly-rewarding free enterprise system come from this college generation.

Our youth is the hope of the future. They are this nation's heirs. Our great country has no other heirs. These undergraduate answers are the answers of cynics and destroyers? Oh, no, blessings be; they are the answers of very good Americans.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

How accurate is your newspaper? Its character has been assailed by some people for a long time. Long ago, there was an editorial cliche: "Don't believe everything you read in the newspapers." This was sound advice, except that no one bothered to explain what parts should be discarded by eye and mind.

No newspaper was ever entirely accurate. If you count the words in the news columns of most newspapers, you will find that there is an assortment of between 10,000 and 15,000 "facts," including names, ages, events, charges, quotes, denials, political promises and threats, opinionated columnists, and that dear, dear whipping boy—the editorial.

No matter how hard a reporter works, no matter how copious the notes, he is bound to fail somewhere. If he doesn't, his city editor or a copyreader may eliminate a phrase or two that will alter the intent of the story. Once, in the long ago of Yellow Journalism, reporters and rewrite men deliberately tossed bias into their work because the publisher had a "policy" applicable to almost any situation.

Those days are gone. Today, most newspapers are so nearly accurate that, quite often, the publisher grinds his teeth when he reads, in his own publication, something noble about a political adversary. This is a good era for papers. The young reporters write the story as they see it, and, having college degrees, they can spell. Some are not too sophisticated and are easily seduced by old ploys, but callous jade requires time to dominate the mind.

I do not defend newspapers, because they require no defense. From Salem to San Diego, from Duluth to Dallas, America has the freest and most alert newsmen in the world. When Mr. Spiro Agnew attacked the press, the editors could have killed the story or played it on the comic strip page. But no—it went out on the front page. The ball of mud tossed at editors was there for all to see.

Perfection of reportage is another matter. It's an impossible goal. Suppression of news is an area in which some newspapers can be indicted. If a pal is arrested for drunken driving, the city editor can ignore the story or impale it on a desk spike to die at once.

This is a crime worse than inaccuracy because it prevents the readers from havin knowledge of a legitimate story.

In this enlightened age, there is less and less manipulation of such news. The editor fears that if he doesn't publish the story, his competition will. So he takes a chance, plays it small, and buries it under a department store ad. In New York, during the 30's, some rival editors would often phone each other and, in collusion, agree not to print a story about—let us say—a dignified Hollywood movie star bagged in a vice raid.

The columnists, if I may be permitted to take a shot at myself and my confreres, are the real offenders. Most of us are syndicated, which means that we are published in a hundred or more newspapers at the same time. The fact that we are given space in so many periodicals engenders a creeping egomania.

We are gifted with elaborate opinions; this column is a good example. We pretend to know a little about everything and we tell you, day by day, who the good guys are and who wear the black hats. This is a power syndrome that makes the columnist feel omnipotent and immune to disagreement.

The thicker his head, the thinner his skin. He searches the bag of daily mail looking for approbation. No matter what he writes—or even how outrageous and illogical his opinions—he will find endorsement because in that multitude of readers there are some who thinks as he does.

I have never been able to conclude that it is a good thing or bad, for editors to place a plethoria of pundits on one page. If the press has a weakness and a virtue, it is that most editors will publish a reactionary columnist on the same page with a liberal one, in addition to the regular Washington columnist who seems to acquire his material from the National Press club bar. Then there is the whimsical columnist, the comedian, and the one who specializes in analyzing why the President said what he did yesterday.

One must assume that the Chief Executive is incapable of expressing himself in English, and this also applies to his Cabinet. According to the columnist, what he said and what he meant are several different things.

As for accuracy, your daily newspaper is as close to it as it is going to be. In the field of private enterprise, where else can a reader call a publisher a nut and have it printed in the letters column?

Jack Anderson Says

Soviet Is Not Reacting On Cambodia as Nixon Hoped

WASHINGTON — President Nixon is directing the Cambodian operation with one eye on Cambodia and the other on the Kremlin.

His decision to send U.S. ground forces into Cambodia, he told his cabinet, was intended as much to establish "credibility" with the Soviets as to knock out the communist sanctuaries.

He noted that Hanoi had disregarded his warnings and had continued to build up the sanctuaries. He wanted to demonstrate to Moscow as well as Hanoi that he was prepared to back up his warnings with action.

For if he showed weakness in Southeast Asia, he confided to the Cabinet, the Kremlin might conclude that he would be weak, too, in the Middle East. He also felt that "decisive" and "unpredictable" moves would keep the Soviets off balance.

The President, therefore, is watching the diplomatic dispatches from Moscow as closely as the battle reports from Cambodia. In their preliminary moves at least, the Soviets haven't reacted at all as he had anticipated.

Message to Moscow

Immediately after the Cambodian action, the President sent word to the Soviets that they should consider carefully their overall relationship with the U. S. before seeking a propaganda advantage from the Cambodian affair.

He believed the Kremlin would put Soviet-American cooperation, say insiders, ahead of short-range propaganda benefits. Instead, Premier Alexei Kosygin called a dramatic press conference, his first in five years, to denounce the Cambodian incursion.

The Nixon administration also dropped sly hints, intended for Kremlin ears, that Russia had as much to gain, as the U.S. from blocking the expansion of Chinese influence into Cambodia. It was pointed out that the Chinese had organized the coalition to restore Prince Sihanouk to power; indeed, that Sihanouk's statements were written for him in Peking.

But instead of widening the Chinese-Russian breach, the Cambodian move had precisely the opposite effect. At the personal intervention of Mao Tse-Tung, the Chinese and Russians virtually abandoned their feud and joined in a united stand against the U.S.

Old Mao, who had been under withering Soviet attack before the Cambodian developments, sought out Soviet diplomat V. G. Gankovsky to urge the resumption of Sino-Soviet talks. The chief Soviet negotiator, Deputy Foreign Minister V. V. Kuznetsov, immediately returned to Peking.

The White House is now watching anxiously to see whether Soviets will use Cambodia as an excuse to sabotage the SALT talks, which are intended to head off an escalation of the costly strategic arms race. President Nixon, having made a public prediction that a Soviet-American agreement would come out of the talks, is now uneasy about it.

Homosexual Hunt

It has been two decades since the late Senator Joe McCarthy began hounding homosexuals out of government. Now the campaign has apparently been quietly reopened.

During the interim, the government has denied security clearance to honosexuals who might be susceptible to blackmail. This wouldn't affect an announced homosexual who made no secret of his deviation and, therefore, couldn't be blackmailed because of it.

Such a man, Otto Ulrich, Jr., has held a secret-level clearance for nearly three years as a translator with the Bionetics Research Washington. In his application for a clearance, he stated frankly that he was a member of the local chapter of the Mattachine Society, an organization principally of homosexuals.

Not until last year did the government make an issue of his sex life. He was summoned to a secret hearing at the Pentagon last July and was asked a series of shockingly vulgar questions about his private life.

He refused to answer them, charging that they had nothing to do with his eligibility. The hearing board, accused him of "criminal conduct and sexual perversion." It charged that he is "not reliable or trustworthy."

Pentagon officials admitted that Ulrich was not charged with susceptibility to blackmail and that he has never been arrested. They noted, however, that certain homosexual acts are illegal in a number of states. At the same time, they acknowledged that prebehavior, which is also illegal in many states, is not a cause for action.

After the formal charges were brought against him, Ulrich was sent the same set of vulgar, graphic questions that he had refused to answer at the hearing. Again he refused. As a consequence, the Pentagon has suspended his security clearance.

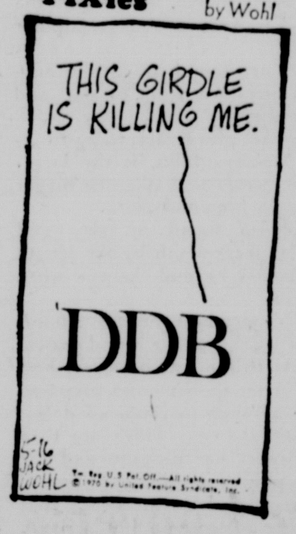

The case is regarded as a precedent for a new crackdown on homosexuals.

Arab Tensions

The flare-up of fighting in the Middle East caught the Arab military coalition shaken by disagreement and disunity. The worst dissension is found on the so-called eastern front where tensions have erupted between the military forces of Iraq, Jordan and Syria.

The Iraquis, for instance, have accused Syrian authorities of mistreating Iraqui forces stationed in Syria. Arab defense ministers and military chiefs met secretly in Cairo earlier this month to iron out the trouble but wound up more divided than ever.

Nixon—A 'Loner' on Decisions

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — What we have been looking at in the past few weeks — probably more clearly than ever before in his long public career — is the purest Richard Nixon.

I mean to say much more by that than simply to endorse the President's own televised assertion, backed up by the findings of diligent reporters, that he alone made the decision to send troops into Cambodia to assault Red sanctuaries.

There is nothing new at all about U.S. presidents making basically military decisions or operating as their own secretaries of state. They know, and commonly accept, that the big burden of judgment is theirs.

What is possibly unique about Richard Nixon is not his heavily stressed reliance upon his own judgment but the magnitude of his distrust in others.

One reason so much has been made of his seeming dependence upon the advice of Attorney General John Mitchell is that he is one of the few in Nixon's hierarchy who could be detached in any kind of continuing relationship with the President.

But I have it from a closely attuned Nixon-watcher that Mitchell's role in key decisions of many sorts probably has been grossly overplayed and that the attorney general almost surely was telling it straight when he told some students he had little to do with the Cambodia decision.

None of this means Nixon does not consult. Of course, he confers with military and foreign policy advisers, though probably with far fewer than some presidents have done. But the evidence is that their judgments have a much smaller place in the "final mix" than might be the case with someone other than Nixon.

Surely this whole town — and by now the nation — knows that the President keeps not only his good friend, Secretary of State William Rogers, in the dark on impending decisions, but a wide range of lesser, yet important, foreign affairs specialists.

When confidences are not exchanged at the crucial moment of decision, it suggests more than some notion about a need for "secrecy." It suggests the President's unwillingness to test his judgment in the still smoldering fires of doubt among his aides.

Here his much-advertised penchant for "working isolation" has a major bearing.

It is easy to pass off his habit of sequestering himself with yellow pad and pencil as a wise means of buying "think time," and to argue that Americans could not care less how he works so long as the results are productive in the fields of policy and action.

But one perceptive Nixonite believes, and he is persuasive, that Nixon uses the "isolation" device to wall himself off from the emotional content which may infuse the judgments of people he might see in person. He wants to weigh their arguments coldly from a sheet of paper.

Is there a paradox in this? I seem to be saying he distrusts the judgements of others, yet fears to hear them because they might be persuasive.

Both things, I think, may well be true. The President unmistakably believes he has "strong points" — a grasp of foreign affairs is one, of politics another. Moreover, he wants to be perceived by the nation and the world as strong, not weak.

Why About-Face, Sen. Fulbright?

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The other day a letter arrived from a doctor whose son was killed in Vietnam.

He asked questions this reporter cannot answer. But they are questions many American parents must be asking these days.

The doctor says in part:

"It is hard to lose your son. It continues to be hard to listen to the people who after sending him there, encouraged and cheered on his enemies while he was fighting, and after his death are trying to destroy what he gave his life for.

"I wrote you because I am appalled at the spectacle of Senator Fulbright's complete reversal on Vietnam between 1964 and 1966. . . .

"You are familiar with his book, "Old Myths and New Realities" . . . The lead essay in this book was a speech Senator Fullbright delivered in the Senate on March 25, 1964. . . .

"I refer you to pages 41 through 44, in which he discusses Vietnam, pursuing a hard line indistinguishable from that of President Kennedy or President Johnson.

"He said, 'There are only two realistic options open to us in Vietnam in the immediate future: The expansion of the conflict in one way or another, or a renewed effort to bolster the capacity of the South Vietnamese to prosecute the war successfully on its present scale.'

"He also said, 'Our purpose is to uphold and strengthen the Geneva Agreements of 1954 and 1962 — that is to say, to establish viable, independent states in Indochina and elsewhere in Southeast Asia, which will be free and secure from the domination of Communist China and Communist North Vietnam.'

"He even envisaged the possibility of having to carry the war to the territory of North Vietnam 'with a view to negotiating a reasonable settlement.'

"With this speech, followed by his serving as floor leader for the Gulf of Tonkin (Southeast Asia) Resolution in August, 1964, Senator Fulbright sent our son to Vietnam, where he was killed. How can this man, then, write 'The Arrogance of Power' in 1966? How can he say in 1970 that it is of little consequence to us if Indochina is conquered by North Vietnam? How could he set in motion the events that have led to Vietnam, and in less than two years be the leader in encouraging the enemy (which is) killing these boys, and in eroding their support at home? . . .

"Perhaps you know the answer. . . . Was it hatred of Johnson? . . .

"The time for debate, dissent and demonstration was the seven-month period between passage of the Tonkin Resolution in August, 1964, and its massive implementation in March, 1965. I could have accepted a decision either way at that time. I cannot accept a country's sending its sons to war, and then insuring their failure and death, even while they fight."

* * *

The doctor sought to find an answer from Sen. Fulbright himself. But, he says, he received no reply.

TEEN SCENE: The Summer Job You Don't Want

By LEI

Daryll was looking forward to a summer working at his dream job as a photographer's assistant. By September he could easily save enough to buy the professional camera and darkroom equipment he had longed for. Unfortunately, his employer became ill and Daryll's ideal summertime fell to bits. Determined to earn at least some of the money for his photographic hobby, Daryll joined his best friend in a menial job on an apple farm.

A ruined summer? It could have been, but Daryll made his job work for him. He observed that, unlike most orchards, this one still allowed substandard conditions. Daryll took several rolls of candid pictures, and submitted the best ones to a national magazine. They were purchased for a generous amount, and after he graduates from college, there is a strong possibility that Daryll will join the photography staff of a magazine.

Similarly, Dorothy dreamed of being a fashion designer, but she was unable to find any work even remotely connected to her ambitions, so she got a job as a nurse's aid for the summer, even though it seemed like the end of the world to her. By September, Dorothy discovered that her visions of expensive gowns seemed superficial compared to the satisfaction she got from helping the sick. She is shifting her high school courses toward training as a nurse—or possibly even a doctor!

Usually the teenager looking for a summer job is advised to choose one connected to his other interests and hobbies. However, sometimes that summer job is a must, and the ideal job isn't available. Or sometimes a job chooses us, when a temporary or part-time job suddenly offers wider possibilities. Other times, the teenager looking for a summer job won't have a very definite idea of what his or her interests are, or the type of job (aside from a paying one) desired.

It is one of the facts of job-hunting that the least-desireable jobs are the easiest to find. Factory, farm, and domestic work may not have the status of a job in sales, office work, or the professions, but it isn't always the dead end that it might seem. For one thing many "blue collar jobs" pay as much or more than the kind of jobs you boast to your friends about. Such jobs often provide the types of "fringe benefits" that Daryll and Dorothy found.

If you've been pretty devoted to your interests, and you've "always wanted to be a doctor," or "planned all your life to be a secretary," you may never have considered a field in which you might discover you had talents. You may find that your special interest has an application in your new job—or that your job has an application in your special interest. Frequently the job you didn't think you wanted will give you an insight into ways or life unfamiliar to you now, and widen your experience with people.

That's what your summer job can do for you. What can you do for it? In order to get anything out of a job—except a little pink slip after a few weeks—you have to put yourself into it. Going into a new situation, you may find the following suggestions helpful.

- If the job bores you, you haven't found what's interesting about it, yet.
- Any job is good as the work you do. If you're too good for the job, prove it. Do it better than it's ever been done before, and you might be in line for a promotion.
- You may know everything there is to know about your favorite topics, but it's unlikely you know more about your new job than your co-workers who have had the job five or ten times longer than you have. Don't be a know-it-all. Even if you're right, you may win the point and lose the job. Learn to nod, and smile while you do it. This is great exercise for the chin and neck muscles.
- Observe all you can while you work. Your observations of people and situations may be one of the most valuable things you will earn from our work.

The least your summer job will mean to you is your weekly salary, social security credit, and, if you've worked well, a good reference. It could mark a turning point in your life. Leave your preconceived ideas home in the dresser drawer, and remember that "work" isn't the worst four-letter word in the language.

An IRS Form for Students

Once you get that summer job, realities like income tax and withholding statements become very real.

The Internal Revenue Service has come up with a special form designed mainly for students who work summers.

According to the Wall Street Journal, Form W-4E, a request for exemption from withholding, is newly available at IRS offices. It is meant for persons who do not make enough to have a tax due.

Youthful Engineer Winning With Steam

CRAFTSMAN PROJECT — John Seabury (C) displays steam engine project which earned him craftsman honors at Myron J. Michael Junior High School. With him are Robert Stinemire (L) supervisor of the industrial arts department of the Kingston Consolidated District and Raymond Gilkey, industrial arts teacher at MJM.

KINGSTON

The Craftsman of the Year candidate at Myron J. Michael Junior High School has proved that engineering feats can be accomplished by the relatively very young.

John Seabury, 13, son of Mr. William A. Seabury, III, Highland Road, Ulster Park, an 8th grade student at the MJM School, has completed construction of a model steam engine that was recently on display at the Industrial Arts booth at the Lions Club Display.

Some months ago, John approached his shop teacher, Raymond Gilkey, if he could build a steam engine for his eighth grade project in Industrial Arts. His teacher discussed with John that this was a rather ambitious project for an eighth grade student, but because of his outstanding record in Industrial Arts in the seventh year, he could go ahead with his plans.

John's father, William A. Seabury III, operates Universal Robots and specializes in designing and building peripheral equipment. John has gained considerable experience for his age by being around his father's shop and helping on some operations. Seabury Sr. agreed that he would supervise work on the project at home and his shop teacher, Gilkey, would supervise the project at school.

Plans were obtained and John started a redesigning of some components. The boiler and basic parts were completed at school and the engine was taken home weekends for construction of the linkage and slide valve assembly. After two months of work at home, and school, the project was completed. John's teacher and father provided only instruction and supervision for this unusual project.

This promising student won the seventh grade Industrial Arts Award for 1969, and is presently crafting Art Metals in the MJM Art Metal Club. He is an honor student and his other interests are scouting, guitar and folk singing. Subjects of interest to him besides shop are math and science. When asked, what he would like to aim towards as a life work he said mechanical engineering with a little folk singing in between to make life interesting.

Career Counsel Offered Locally

KINGSTON

Project Outreach is coming to the Kingston area through the sponsorship of B'nai B'rith Zephaniah Lodge 131.

This is a program where a professional career counselor will journey to Kingston from the B'nai B'rith Vocational Service of New York in New York City to provide comprehensive counseling to high school junior and seniors sons and daughters of B'nai B'rith members.

Each applicant receives 15 hours of interviews, aptitude and other tests, parent consultation and follow-up in four appointments. All sessions will be held at the Jewish Community Center, 96 Maiden Lane, Kingston.

Eligible applicants interested in determining where their skills lie and what career should be persued should call Leonard Hershoff, chairman, to arrange for career counseling.

Youth in the News

Youth in the News reports this week are highlighted by honors and special study programs.

Jacqueline Schechter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Saul Schechter, of 88 Roosevelt Avenue, Kingston, a freshman at Elmira College, is one of 12 students participating in a study tour of English education during the current six-week term.

The tour is being conducted by Dr. Grant J. Northup, professor of education at Elmira College. The group is observing British elementary and secondary school classes, and interviewing students, teachers and officials connected with national and local education.

All Elmira students are now devoting this period to in-depth study of a specific subject as part of a unique academic program developed for the college's third term.

In addition to study tours, students have enrolled in various academic seminars, clinics, internships, and other independent study projects.

Another area student is slated for study in Great Britain.

Francine Markover has been accepted on a select program for summer studies at the British Universities Summer Schools.

A junior English major at Ithaca College, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Markover, 8 Hermance Street, Ellenville. Miss Markover is a 1967 graduate of Ellenville High School.

She will study English literature for a six-week period at her first choice of schools, the University of Edinburgh. Only slightly over 400 are accepted for the four schools each summer from hundreds of applicants.

She is a deans list student and has been a feature writer for the student newspaper, The Ithacan.

At home study has paid off for a Saugerties teenager.

Seventeen-year-old Marie B. Ruddy, 22 Prospect Street, Saugerties, has graduated from the Famous Artists School of Westport, Conn. During her association with this home study school, Marie specialized in the Art Course for Talented Young People which enlists youngsters 12 through 17 years of age.

Directing the art courses is a faculty of distinguished artists among whom are Norman Rockwell, Lorraine Fox, Bob Peak and Franklin McMahon.

Two Ulster County students attending Colgate University at Hamilton have been honored for academic achievement.

Alan D. Gordon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gordon of Newton Avenue, Phoenicia is among 43 seniors initiated as members of New York Eta Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, recently. An English concentrator at Colgate, Gordon is a member of Phi Society.

Thomas N. Salzmann, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. Salzmann, 166 Wrentham Street, this city, is the recipient of a Lawrence Chemical Prize at Colgate where he is a junior.

A chemistry major at the upstate university, Salzmann is a member of the fencing team and has been active in intramural sports. He is a 1967 graduate of Kingston High School.

Straight A's earned a dean's list placement for Richard Roumelis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Roumelis of Highland. Richard is a student at George Fox College, Oregon.

Scandinavian Seminar Offered for the Fall

Summer thoughts are gaining an upper hand these May days with many area teens turning to work or study plans for the balmy days ahead. It is really not too early to be thinking ahead to fall study plans as well.

Scandinavian Seminar is now accepting applications for its study abroad program in Denmark, Finland, Norway, or Sweden for the academic year 1970-71. This living-and-learning experience is particularly designed for college students, graduates and others who want to become part of another culture while acquiring a second language.

The program is geared to meet each student's individual needs. During the year he is separated from the other Seminar participants except during the intensive language courses and the three general sessions conducted under the supervision of the Seminar's American Director, Dr. Adolph G. Anderson.

A family stay early in the year gives the student the opportunity to begin practicing the use of the language on a daily basis, and to share in the activities of the community. For the major part of the year he lives and studies among Scandinavians at a residential school for continuing adult education or other specialized institution.

The focus of the Seminar program is the student's Independent Study Project in his special field of interest. Many American Colleges and universities give full or partial credit for the Seminar year.

Further information is available by writing to Scandinavian Seminar, 140 West 57th Street, New York, N. Y. 10019.

New Paltz Concerts, Contests

NEW PALTZ

Contest winners, concerts and conservation have been concerning New Paltz High School students during the past week.

Lamp, Kitchen and Home Design winners have been announced. All three contests are sponsored annually in the Mid-Hudson Valley by Central Hudson Gas and Electric.

New Paltz kitchen planners with winning ways are Diane Lent and Ann Baker, first place; Cynthia Holliday, second; Jane Roach, third and Candace Cleveland, honorable mention.

Diane and Ann will go on to compete with other first place winners for the grand award.

Originality, craftsmanship and utility marked the lamp design entries in a variety of woods and metals. First award went to Phil Bondanza for his imaginative turnings within a walnut oval. Second, third and fourth place winners were Terry Cosh, Louis Tierney and Victor Rizzotto.

Home design winners on the local level were Brad Burchell, first; Jim Cornwell, second and Paul Schreiber, third. Winners were chosen on the basis of all around good planning and careful model execution.

The Middle School band presented its spring concert this week and the High School Concert Band is busily rehearsing for its seasonal offering to be presented May 21 at the high school auditorium. A wide range of offerings are planned for the high school band concert which will be the last of the current school year. There is no admission charge and the 8 p.m. event is open to the public.

The vocal choral concert will be presented at the high school May 28 with the Middle School choir singing out the school year Thursday, June 4.

Although Earth Day as such has long since passed, New Paltz students are still much concerned with their environment and have continued the spirit well into spring.

The Earth Commitment group at the high school has pledged to complete one project a week for the betterment of the community. A recent effort was a clean up hike along South Putt Corners Road. The goal was to reach Barkers Department Store and then clean up Simmons Plaza. However, so much trash was picked up in the road walk that there was no time to complete both jobs. Fifteen bags of cans, trash and other junk were transported to the town dump by Charles Dixon, father of one of the students who participated.

Students who are continuing the environmental clean up are Kent Amsden, Robert Ashton, Ann Baker, Phil Bodanza, Carol Dixon, Linda Erman, Cindy Holliday, Denise Hornbeck, Diane Lent, JoAnn Ligotino, Toby Scott, Jeanine Simrad, Lucy Taylor and Sue Widing.

The Library Assistants of the high school turned their interest toward conservation at a recent meeting when Daniel Smiley of Lake Mohonk was guest speaker. He was recently appointed to a nine-man committee titled Temporary State Committee on Youth Education in Conservation. He spoke on problems of over-population and air and water pollution.

As a result of the meeting the library group voted to make a contribution to the Mohonk Trust, conservation organization.

Annual cheerleader tryouts were held at New Paltz recently and squads were announced this week.

The girls are members of the social work class at UCCC which is assisting in preparing the new offices at 21 O'Neil Street for May 25 occupancy. The class, under the direction of Associate Professor Robert Kurland has carried out a number of work projects in conjunction with area social agencies. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

Sentimental and Stellar Tours

KINGSTON

A sentimental literary journey and a stellar space trip have been on the agenda in recent weeks for Ulster Academy students.

Six members of the junior class, Betsy Siewers, Marcia Mogel, Marney Sprague, Bill Kelly, Frank Hoppe, and Mark Crisman travelled together to historic Concord, Mass. on a "literary sentimental journey" to visit Emerson, Thoreau, the Alcotts, Hawthorne in their native village. The three day trip was under the direction of R. A. Nelson, the school's headmaster, who is teaching American literature.

After checking in at the Concord Inn, built in 1716, the students toured the Concord Antiquarian Society Museum which features 17 period rooms of authentic Concord furnishings as well as a special exhibition of Emerson's study and Thoreau's personal possessions. They then visited the Old North Bridge over the Concord River where the patriots and the Red Coats exchanged the "shot heard round the world" on April 19, 1775.

They visited Walden Pond, site of Thoreau's famous two year habitation and inspected the Thoreau cabin itself, reproduced by the Thoreau Society in the village on Belknap Street. The students toured the Emerson home, the Wright Tavern, the Indian Hill Burial Ground and the First Parish Church and other highlights.

Boston Commons, Old South Church and other historic sites were on the tour as well.

Equipped with slides, photograhps and other material, the students are now planning on all school program which if successful will be shown at other local schools.

Students from the 8th, 9th, and 10th grades at Ulster Academy recently travelled to Yonkers to view the Hudson River Museum's current Andrus Space Transit Planetarium show, The Incredible Builders of Stonehenge.

Smokers May Dial for Help

KINGSTON — Effective Friday, smokers may now dial 338-6200 and listen to a 60-second information recording designed to help them establish a decision. This message will help smokers to kick the smoking habit. Smokers may dial any time, day or night for this recorded help. Messages will be changed ever Monday, Wednesday and Friday, Pastor Schiffbauer has announced.

Smoker's Dial is an extension of the internationally recognized Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking which has already been successfully conducted in major cities across the nation. Smoker's Dial also is designed for people who have already quit the habit of smoking, but need something to help maintain that resolve.

The community service is sponsored by the local action Unit for Better Living of the Seventh-day Adventist Church, 30 Pearl Street.

The second Five-day Plan to Quit Smoking is scheduled to begin Sunday, May 24 at the George Washington School Auditorium at 7:30 p.m. "Plan now to attend if you want to kick the habit," a spokesman said.

AN ORDINANCE AMENDING THE CITY OF KINGSTON ZONING ORDINANCE (Amendment No. 42)

BE IT ORDAINED by the Common Council of the City of Kingston, New York, as follows:

Section 1. That the Ordinance known as the City of Kingston Zoning Ordinance adopted November 12, 1963, be amended as follows:

WHEREAS, the application of Jalel Mahdavian, M.D., for a change in zoning classification of 211-219 Hurley Avenue from a "R-1" designation to a "O-2" designation has been duly approved by the Planning Board of the City of Kingston, and

WHEREAS, the Common Council through the Laws and Rules committee has studied and considered the aforesaid application, with particular reference to the suggested amendment of the Zoning Ordinance is in conformity to the comprehensive plan of the City of Kingston, New York.

Section 2. That the following described parcel of land now classified as "R-1" designation be amended to include said "Limited Office 'O-2' District" and that the Zoning Map, City of Kingston, New York, dated November 12, 1963, a part of the aforesaid ordinance be amended to include said parcels of land within said "Limited Office 'O-2' District":

All that tract, piece, or parcel of land situate, lying and being in the City of Kingston, County of Ulster and State of New York, more particularly bounded and described as follows:

Beginning at a point on the northerly side of Hurley Avenue, said point being the southwesterly corner of Ludwig; thence north 14 degrees east 130 feet to a stake driven in the ground; thence in a westerly direction on a line parallel with the northerly street line of Hurley Avenue 130 feet to a stake driven in the ground; thence south 14 degrees west 130 feet to a stake driven in the ground; thence in an easterly direction along the northerly line of Hurley Avenue for a distance of 120 feet to the point or place of beginning. Being the same premises conveyed by Charles Tuttle and Florence Tuttle, his wife, to the Wonderly Co., Inc., by Deed dated April 27th, 1962, and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office, in Liber 1121 of Deeds at Page 267.

Section 3. That this ordinance shall be in force from and after its passage, approval, and publication as provided by law.

Submitted to the Mayor by the City Clerk the 6th day of May, 1970
LOUIS F. DeCICCO

WOODSTOCK PLAYHOUSE
SEASON TICKETS
1970 SUMMER SEASON WOODSTOCK PLAYHOUSE

The Woodstock Playhouse will open its 33rd consecutive season this June!

Some of the recent Broadway hits already in the planning stage for the 1970 summer season are: Arthur Miller's THE PRICE, Neil Simon's PLAZA SUITE, AMERICA HURRAH, SCUBA DUBA, FORTY CARATS, Woody Allen's PLAY IT AGAIN, SAM, Jules Feiffer's LITTLE MURDERS, JOE EGG, ADAPTATION/NEXT, THE BOYS IN THE BAND, TO BE YOUNG, GIFTED AND BLACK. Musical possibilities are: YOUR OWN THING, CABARET, MAN OF LA MANCHA, JACQUES BREL, HELLO DOLLY, FIDDLER ON THE ROOF and HAIR.

We are again offering our unique season ticket which entitles you to ten admissions to the Woodstock Playhouse on any weekday including Sundays! We will even honor its value on Fridays, Saturdays, and holidays with an additional premium! The ticket can be used at any time by any number of people; once a week or all in one night if you wish! Good for dramas, comedies, and musicals!

The Woodstock Playhouse season ticket still is one of the great theater bargains offered! Pay only $30 for 10 admissions, which if purchased individually would cost at least $45! Each card is numbered and registered with us in case of loss or theft.

For many years we have sold out our complete quota of these season passes! We will not print any more than the original amount offered! Take advantage of this offer now! Don't miss your chance for an exciting season at the Woodstock Playhouse . . . order your season ticket today! Requests will be filled only in order of receipt!

EMPLOYMENT

ATTENTION JOB APPLICANTS
The Daily Freeman does not knowingly accept Help Wanted ads from employers covered by the Fair Labor Standards Act if they offer less than the legal minimum wage or fail to pay at least time and one-half for overtime hours. The minimum wage for employment covered by the FLSA prior to the 1966 Amendments is $1.60 an hour with overtime pay required after 40 hours a week. Jobs covered as a result of the 1966 Amendments require $1.30 an hour minimum with overtime pay required after 40 hours a week. For specific information contact the Wage and Hour Office of the U. S. Department of Labor, 331 Gerard Ave., Bronx, N. Y. 10452, WYandotte 2-1235.
IMPORTANT NOTICE: The New York State Law against Discrimination and the Federal Civil Rights Act of 1964 prohibit discrimination in employment because of sex unless based on a bona fide occupational qualification. Help Wanted and Situation Wanted advertisements are arranged in columns captioned "Male" and "Female" for the convenience of readers and are not intended as an unlawful limitation or discrimination based on sex.

Dear Abby

Compete Against TV

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: "Drop in" guests have no legitimate complaint if they are ignored in favor of the idiot box. "Drop ins" are persons whom we never invite because almost anything the boob tube has to offer is preferable to their comapny.

I wish you would say a few words about people who invite you over — coaxing even, so that after several invitations you finally give in, so as not to be stigmatized as an "unfriendly" neighbor. And then, when the invited guest shows up at a prearranged time, the host or hostess has the television on—and LOUD!

Even so, the guest is not permitted to concentrate on the program because conversation must go on, despite the blaring emanating from the unwatched, but raucous, box.

Well-mannered persons would appreciate your comment on this. As for me, I've solved the problem. (Sign me)

UNFRIENDLY BOOR

DEAR BOOR: Of all the reasons for accepting an invitation, not wanting to be "stigmatized as an unfriendly neighbor" is the poorest — for after having accepted, good manners demand that you reciprocate. And why get on that kind of a merry-go-round with persons you'd never invite to your home because you feel that "almost any offering from the boob tube is preferable to their company?"

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I am being called a "poor sport" because I refuse to go along with the following deal:

My husband (I'll call him "Paul") and I go around with a couple I will call "Bill and Angie."

Paul digs Angie and Angie digs Paul. Bill digs me, but I don't dig Bill.

Paul and Angie and Bill say I am a "poor sport" — that it's three against one and I'm spoiling their fun. Angie keeps telling me that Bill is really great, and if I tried this wife swapping deal just once I might like it.

I just can't see it. What is your opinion?

ONE MAN WOMAN

DEAR WOMAN: I can't see it eighter. Ask Angie what she wants with your husband if HERS is so "great."

* * *

DEAR ABBY: This jazz about women being upgraded to the same status as men is, to me, a most attractive idea. IF we go all the way with it.

Let the girls work in the logging industry, topping out spar trees. Let them fish the Grand Banks in midwinter. Let them work the high steel in bridge-building. Let them grow the ulcers and have the heart attacks, and forego all the courtesies one man would not give to another.

Above all, make them subject to the draft: put them into infantry combat training. Send them to the swamps and the steaming jungles of Vietnam, and let them play tag with Charley.

Let them coddle and take care of the men, who can then show them the same lack of appreciation they dish out. Maybe then they would quit vibrating on their abstracts and become human.

CARL

* * *

CONFIDENTIAL TO "TO DYE OR NOT TO DYE": If you want MY opinion, yes, I've seen many women who look prettier" with gray hair. But none who look "younger" with it.

* * *

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S horoscope

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Considerable confusion exists until noon. The best course for you to pursue would be to make no decisions until after that time, but study all phases of any plan of interest to you. However, the afternoon is splendid for using your good judgment and finding answers to your questions.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) If you get into new interest in the morning you can then rush through routine work and get it done fast, too. Your co-workers are not in the right mood for new ideas from you. Wait for a better time.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Don't try to mix business with pleasure this morning. Keep busy with the practical and then tonight you have a delightful time at recreation. Some expert does not give the proper help early, but later he comes through.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You have to be tactful in order to get more understanding from others, especially at home. Get into fundamental matters early. Be as pleasant as you can with kin in the evening.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Morning hours are fine for shopping and keeping important appointments. Later, go out to recreations you like with congenials. Please friends. Get the information you need later in the day.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Be careful you do not invest in some crazy scheme that could cost you heavily. Be more concerned with the sane and practical. Relay on advisers. Please them and all is fine for you.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Use your own good ideas instead of relying on those of kin, who are not thinking very clearly. Do whatever will improve your health. Be your most charming self socially this evening.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Being thoughful of others is most important today, especially with pesons who are ill or unable to go out. Get busy at routine chores that make your home more charming and neat. Be happy with mate.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 11) Get routine work done without expending too much energy in the morning so that you are at your best this evening at some social event. Show that you are a courteous person, make right contacts.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) The morning should be spent clearing up bills. Then out with bigwigs to start an uptrend in your future. One in particular could be most helpful to you. Avoid the social tonight and study instead.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Anything you do to gain the favors of those our of town is fine now, so think carefully and then carry thorough. You get fine ideas for advancement after lunch. Be more serious in social life this evening.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You hardly know what to do since a freind gives you one kind of advice and kin just the opposite. Listen to what a prominent person has to say and all is fine. Do more modern thinking.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Plan the future more intelligently and use talents you did not know you possessed. Make big strides forward. Some person you know who is an expert can give you excellent advice now. Be clever and follow it.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY.. he or she will know intuitively what is the best course to follow and will avoid the wrong one. Your child can be of great help to the public in general, since there is a great humanitarian nature here. The field of investigation, laboratory work, etc., is fine. College work may be necessary there for fine results. give fine ethical training.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Get everything about you in order. Make sure you discuss with others how they would like to have conditions and let them know what you have in mind. Then come to an agreement where all kinds of furnishings, work, health, diet, food and usual routine problems are concerned.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) This is an ideal day to tackle those chores you have deliberately put aside for some time. Then do some window-shopping and plan a more charming wardrobe.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Plan some recreation that can be mutually enjoyed with those whose tastes are similar to yours. Get that problem worked out with mate. Then you can have more harmony and be happy in the evening.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Set up better conditions at home today and get the approval of those who live there. You have an opportunity to make a plan for greater success, too. Show that you have wisdom.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Be more efficient and become more glamorous as well. Come to a better understanding with associates. Obtain the information you want from the right persons. You get it with relative ease now.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Have meetings with financial experts today and you get fine results which can add to your present property. Use your hunches, which are good now. Be careful of strangers who give you a smooth line of talk.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Enjoy some favorite recreation with those you truly like and discuss your finest personal aims. A new attitude toward the social can bring excellent results now. Be clever with figures.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Get the information that will help that plan you have. Be sure to make appointments early for such. Meet with an expert and discuss your best method for advancement. Be sure to get to bed early tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Entertaining or going out socially is fine now since you can meet interesting and prominent persons. Be sure you know what it is you want. Then go after it positively.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Be careful in handling any career or social duties. Get the approval of higher-ups first for best results. Enter some civic affair that will be of great help to you. Be clever.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You can get fine ideas for advancement. If you talk them over with the right people first, you can put them in operation quickly. Get busy with that out-of-town correspondence. Be wise.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Be sure you get every obligation nicely handled today. Show that you are conscientious today. More understanding is possilbe with romantic tie.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Know what it is that associates and higher-ups expect of you and do your utmost to cooperate. Come to a better understanding. You have a hobby that needs a little more spark to it.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY. . .he or she will be one of those very delightful youngsters who is intelligent and practical and will be able to make a good deal of money early in life. Your child will make an excellent impression on others. Teach early not to go back on promises or decisions made or the progress here will be lessened. Show a good deal of affection and teach the importance of understanding.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Happy Days—Showstoppers

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The best CBS-TV variety show of the season was held behind closed doors in Los Angeles last week.

It did, however, serve as a preview for a summer series, "Happy Days," that will bow in on the network June 25.

And if the series is as good as the preview, the middle-aged generation may spend part of the summer swooning and jitterbugging.

And the younger generation may get a clue as to what turned on its parents back in the 1930s and 1940s.

For "Happy Days" will be a weekly one-hour entry reprising the comedy and music of those years, bringing back top acts.

As for that show behind closed doors last week, it was held at a banquet for representatives of CBS affiliate stations.

Tim Conway Hosts

The host for the show was Tim Conway, and he was very good, smoothing over the weak spots so they were minor.

He did his preliminaries, and suddenly there was a big band blasting off, and jitterbuggers cavorting.

Then, in the style of the old band announcers at remote locations for radio programs, he was introducing Tex Beneke and the Modernaires.

And the audience was in seventh heaven as Beneke and the Modernaires launched a medley—"Don't Sit Under the Apple Tree," "Moonlight Serenade," "String of Pearls," "Moonlight Cocktails" and "Chattanooga Cho Choo."

Well, friends, there was a radio simulation of a Fred Allen-Jack Benny comedy exchange. And a takeoff of Major Bowes' Amateur Hour with the usual imitation of Shirley Temple.

And Bob and Ray doing a "Doctor I.Q." quiz show. And then came the night's showstopper.

Brings Down House

Out came Peter Graves of "Mission: Impossible," of all people, and in his hand was a clarinet. And, with the big band behind him, he brought down the house by tootling the Artie Shaw rendition of "Begin the Beguine."

After that came Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy. And Alan Copeland singing "Marie." And then more showstoppers:

Bob Eberle reviving the swoon-getter "Maria Elena," and then teaming into "Who Cares?" and Lionel Hampton coming on at the vibes, drums and piano with a rousing solo performance.

At the end, what else? The Modernaires singing "Dream."

The affiliates, who are being sold CBS-TV's new youth programming, went home happy. For a night, at least, they had a chance to do their own thing. Youth, after all, is a state of mind.

No Trump Jitters Fails in Spades

By Oswald & James Jacoby

One of the worst side effects of notrumpitis is that the man with the disease always expects that his partner is suffering from it also. Hence, he goes out of his way to take his partner out of no trump into his own suit.

Today's hand shows a sad result of this. There is nothing wrong with South's opening spade bid. He only has 11 high-card points but they represent three quick tricks. In addition his six-card trump suit includes the 10 and nine to back up the ace and king so that he can rebid his suit happily.

North has 13 high-card points; 4-3-3-3 distribution and stoppers in all the suits. His two no-trump response is eminently correct.

Opening lead—♦ K

We can't say the same for South's rebid to three spades. Not that we criticize it severely but rather that we would be inclined to raise our partner to three no-trump. We don't have a singleton, we don't have a secondary suit that we might want to ruff in dummy and we do have a hand that will probably take the same number of tricks at no-trump as at spades.

Furthermore, we have no reason to want the lead to come up to our hand. Give our partner king-jack-small in any suit and the lead to him may well produce a trick that a lead through him would not.

In any event, South's rebid to three pases didn't really hurt him because North went on to three no-trump. South should surely let him play there.

South was really punished at four spades. With East holding the king of clubs he fell one short of his game contract. At three no-trump there were nine tricks in top cards.

City Beat

By HUGH REYNOLDS

Freeman City Hall Reporter

The financing of the new city hall in Broadway East graphically illustrates the myriad problems of government in the city of Kingston.

The problems are many. Sometimes you solve one only to aggrevate another. Money, usually the best remedy, is always in short supply.

So money, as usual, is the problem with the new city hall. Under the Koenig administration things have gone fairly smoothly. Bids were advertised and came in under estimates, thanks to a little juggling by city officals.

The five low bidders, we are now told, were all responsible people and have been awarded contracts. Construction should begin around June 1.

All well and good. Now the problem.

The mayor has two ways to go on the financing, long and short.

The short term method was proposed by former Mayor Raymond Garraghan. Ray's idea was to pay off the city hall over a five-year period with short-term notes. That made sense as far as the overall cost went. Interest payments would be kept to an absolute minimum thus saving the city a considerable sum.

The other side of the coin is that a plan such as Garraghan's while saving money in the long run, would be extremely expensive over the next five years . . . like better than $200,000 a year. That would either require a hefty tax hike or a drastic curtailment of current programs.

The younger residents might go for that plan, say those up to the age of maybe 50. The older folk, however, would be likely to take the opposite view.

A man of 60 with an average life expectancy of about 15 years might reason, "why should I be forced to pay off a building in five years that will last for at least another 50 years? Let the people who will be using it pay for it."

The younger folk, on the other hand, probably don't like the idea of paying double for a new city hall, figuring a $900,000 bond at five per cent interest over the next 20 years.

There's a third factor that the mayor has to consider. The city debt right now is one of the lowest (per capita) in the state thanks to Garraghan's policy of paying it off in advance.

Garraghan made a lot of political hay from that fact even though there were a few scattered voices who wondered why he was paying off three per cent money at a time he could be getting six per cent for his cash.

Koenig, on the other hand, is faced with the unenviable necessity (and it appears to be just that) of virtually doubling the city's debt. The city hall isn't the only mandated item of high expense. There's also the city sewage treatment plant ordered by the state. That should cost the city about a million bucks.

We'd guess that Koenig will compromise on the city hall debt and come up with a 10-year bond issue. That may solve the problem. But there's always other problems. As Harry Truman once put it, "the buck stops here." Unfortunately, for Koenig, in this instance, there's only so many bucks to go around.

THE JONES BOY—The Jones boy we're referring to is Addison Jones, known as Mr. Bowling in these parts, a former county legislator who missed out by about 85 votes last November.

We had had only a passing acquaintance with Mr. Jones (or Mr. Bowling) until Wednesday night when we ran into him at a bowling banquet in Port Ewen.

Ad was there to fete his Ad Jones Girls bowling team which had finished 12th in the Friendship League.

Frankly, we had thought that Addison Jones, at 75, last year, was a bit over the hill to be running for office again. We were dead wrong on that one. Addison Jones turns out to be a dynamic man who still maintains an active interest in any number of things including his former constituents.

Jones is still campaigning for the widening of Albany Avenue and has been petitioning state and county officials to get some action. It had been our impression that defeated public officials simply faded away. Jones proved us wrong on that count, too.

Jones proved the life of the bowling banquet, even going as far as to offer solace to the Koenig Music Shop team. The Koenig girls finished seventh after dropping their last nine games in a row. They could take lessons from the mayor on winning.

PROTEST AT B AND F—The butchers at the B and F Market on Broadway are normally a jovial group but an article we wrote on the closing of the market this past Wednesday sent them racing for the meat cleavers.

In the article, Jim Roberts, the owner, said that "It's difficult to get qualified help down here."

Jim, of course, was referring to new help, not the guys he had working for him at present. The butchers (and their wives) read it differently. We were subsequently invited into the meat freezer (by the butchers) to discuss the matter.

Of course we knew all along the Jimmy Roberts' butchers, Jim Howard and Angelo Vendetti were choice workmen, a pair of clean cut fellows.

Also entering a beef was Harold Reed, the grocery manger. Roberts probably would like to have taken them all with him but that urban renewal money goes just so far.

Take it from Roberts, all his boys, including Ken Kittle, the assistant manager, are top shelf.

Kuntsler Packs 'em in at Vassar

By TIM SCHUSTER

POUGHKEEPSIE

Chicago Seven attorney William Kuntsler spoke to a packed chapel Friday night at Vassar College until his voice was horse, and then answered qestions from the crowd for another half-hour.

All colleges of the Mid-Hudson valley were represented by students, some sent chartered buses, and the cars were lined up for several blocks around the campus. Latecomers had to content themselves with a seat outside the chapel, where the rally was relayed over a sound system.

Kuntsler arrived inauspiciously in a small, red Volkswagen. He was dressed in a grey suit, and he held onto the streaked hair flowing down over his coat collar.

"I started speaking in Bedford, Mass. this morning to a group of high school students on the village green," he said. "Then I spoke at Pace College in New York, and spent two hours this afternoon speaking at Brooklyn Law School. Tomorrow I go to Chicago, and not even I know where I'll be after that."

Kuntsler is facing four years incarceration on contempt of court charges in the famous Chicago trial. When asked what the charges were based on, he replied, "Everything from blowing kisses to the jury to embracing Ralph Abernathy." On the subject of the trial, he commented. "If Chicago did anything, it showed there is a legitimate grievance against the courts of our land."

His 1½ hour speech compared the present student strike to similar stages in the American and French Revolutions of the 18th century, and to the 1930s Weimar Republic of Germany when Adolph Hitler came to power.

His assessment of the current student strike is that the "time had come to act in terms, man, and students acted in the only way they had the power, by closing down the universities."

He decried all redicals who attempt military-type campaigns, saying that no amount of violence can win against the government. He mentioned several prognostications by prominent government figures during the past week, including Secretary of the Interior Walter Hickel, Senator George McGovern, and Chief Justice Earl Warren. All were saying that the country is in the midst of a great crisis; it may be facing anarchy and revolution; and unless some government reversals are brought about, the split might be "irretrievable."

Special

Kuntsler cited the killing of the four Kent State students as the critical point over the past 12 days, saying that the fact they were white made all the difference.

"In Song My, the massacre was of non-whites," he noted. "This could never happen in Scarsdale."

In refrence to President Nixon's approach to the student shutdown he said, "Even the most insensitive of men found he could not sleep, and so took a walk around the Lincoln Memorial." He said Nixon "deigned to notice" the demonstrators in Washington, which he "didn't do during the football season."

Kuntsler said that the only conciliatory action which would take some pressure off the White House, in his opinion, would be the declaration of a unilateral ceasefire in Vietnam and Cambodia, not shooting unless fired upon.

Stressing what he called a "solemn obligation" of the students to close every institution in which they had power, he said, "We have the same two things the Germans had before World War II: the will to resist and the ability to coalesce. Let's hope we have better luck."

Kuntsler, in a reflective moment, said that he "picks and chooses the words he uses because he realizes he has a responsibility and influence" over college and high school students. "Only a madman wants blood, death, and destruction," he said, "but when a rat is in a trap it fights back."

He also stated, in answer to a question, that the police were guilty of murder of two Black Panthers in Chicago. "They can sue me if this is not true," he added.

One student announced that he was going to burn his draft card after the meeting, and everyone was invited to watch.

About 2,000 people stood and cheered, with fists raised, at Kuntsler's closing words — "Power to the people!"

See Credibility Gap in Cambodia

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee says President Nixon's promise to withdraw from Cambodia by June 30 is only an "estimate." The chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee says flatly of Nixon's pledge, "I don't believe him."

The two powerful committee chairmen—long time adversaries John C. Stennis, D-Miss., of Armed Services and J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., of Foreign Relations—clashed on the Senate floor once again Friday, this time over the U.S. military incursion into Cambodia.

While upholding opposite viewpoints, they agreed on a central issue: Nixon may not be master of events and may be forced to renege.

The confrontation came at the end of the Senate's first week of debate on an amendment that would cut off funds for supporting U.S. troops in Cambodia after June 30. No vote before the middle of next week appeared possible, although supporters of the amendment, claiming more than 50 votes, pressed for a roll call on Monday.

"I don't see how any president can call to the day certain when a battle is over," Stennis told Fulbright as the two faced each other Friday in a renewal of their dramatic encounters in the Senate chamber. Stennis contended that a sudden military reversal "might force him to change that timetable" and that Nixon merely had "made an estimate when he felt it would be prudent to withdraw."

Fulbright was on his feet before Stennis had finished seeing an opening to back up his position favoring legislation to hold the president to his pledge that U.S. troops would be withdrawn quickly and not be sent back to Cambodia again.

"You're confirming what I thought," Fulbright said. "He didn't really mean it when he said July 1. . .You are saying that you don't believe the president. If you do believe the president, why isn't this amendment in proper order?"

"How about yourself, do you believe him?" Stennis asked.

"No, I don't believe him," Fulbright responded.

"You pass this resolution, Senator, and you'll create a field day for our enemies," said Stennis. "They'll be able to establish sanctuaries wherever they want. They'll be running the show."

"How in the world can you say that?" Fulbright asked incredulous at Stennis' contention the amendment would cause rejoicing in Communist capital. Fulbright pointed out Nixon had established the perimeters and timetable for the U.S. military operation in Cambodia, and announced them publicly on nationwide television—and the Senate was only trying to confirm what he had said.

But he added that Congress should have learned by now how not to take the executive branch blindly at its word. He accused Stennis, "one of the strongest advocates of strict construction of the Constitution," of "abdicating completely" to the executive.

GIs Join the Antiwar Protestors

By United Press International

"The first nationwide GI antiwar protest" has caused the cancellation of today's Armed Forces Day observances at many of the nation's biggest military bases.

Ten thousand men from all branches of the military were to march down New York City's Fifth Avenue and 250,000 persons were expected to watch them. But no large antiwar demonstrations were planned today in the nation's largest city.

It was a different story in other areas. The Pentagon said late Friday observances at 22 military installations had been cancelled or suspended. At Ft. Rucker, Ala., where combat helicopter pilots are trained, observances were cancelled after bomb threats were received at the base and at Cairns Army Air Field, Ozark, Ala.

The antiwar demonstrations were organized loosely by the New Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam. Jack Susarrey, coordinator of the "GI Task Force," called today's demonstrations "the first nationwide GI antiwar protest."

Thousands of protestors were planning to demonstrate against President Nixon's Indochina policy and "militarism." Army, Air Force, Navy and Marine officials decided to forego traditional parades and open houses to avoid possible clashes with demonstrators.

Programs were canceled at Ft. Benning, Ga., the Army's infantry training center; Ft. Ord, Calif., the largest infantry base in the West; Ft. Meade, Md., headquarters of the 2nd Army; Ft. Bragg, N.C., where paratroopers are trained; the Great Lakes Naval Training Center, north of Chicago; Ft. Dix, N.J., and other military installations.

Some of the demonstrations began Friday. About 40 of 300 young people were arrested outside the Boston Army base when they formed a "human barrier" to the base.

Actress Jane Fonda was to join at today's Ft. Bragg demonstration. Yippie Abbie Hoffman was going to Ft. Meade. Jerry Rubin was to be at Ft. Dix. Rennie Davis—one of the "Chicago Seven" with Hoffman and Rubin—was to appear at Ft. Jackson, S.C.

About 5,000 persons were expected to go to the little—pop. 87—town of Nekoma, N.D., to protest the construction of an antiballistic missile base.

Blast Police in Panther Killings

CHICAGO (UPI)—Police conducting the Dec. 4 raid in which two Black Panther Party leaders were slain fired from 82 to 99 shots while the Panthers fired only one shot, according to a federal grand jury report.

The grand jury issued a report Friday on its five-month investigation of the early morning raid and said the 14 police raiders gave testimony "materially inconsistent with the physical evidence" found after the raid.

The 249 page report said, however, that this "inconsistency" was not sufficient reason "to establish probable cause to charge the officers with a willful violation of the occupants' civil rights."

The jury returned no indictments.

Sharp Criticisms

The document said a report on the raid by the police Internal Inspection Division was "so seriously deficient that it suggests purposeful malfeasance." But the Panthers also were criticized severely, particularly for their statement that they were not cooperating with the official investigations because they were not being judged by a jury of their peers. The grand jury said this was "frivolous."

The report—highly critical of the police raiders, the Panthers, the police crime lab, the Cook County coroner's office, the press and present Illinois Pather chairman Bobby Rush—came after a long controversy about what happened in the West Side apartment last December.

Police, ostensibly on a weapons raid, broke into the apartment and killed Party chairman Fred Hampton, 21, and organizer Mark Clark, 23. Four others in the apartment were wounded and two policemen were injured.

Charges Already Dropped

The raiders—Chicago policemen assigned to the office of Cook County State's Attorney Edward V. Hanrahan—confiscated 14 shotguns, rifles, carbines, handguns and 1,000 rounds of ammunition from the apartment.

The seven other Panthers in the apartment were charged with attempted murder. The 14 raiders said they had been fired at at least 10 to 15 times.

The Panthers charged the police came in shooting and intentionally killed Hampton and Clark. They hired private pathologists who said Hampton had been drugged into sleep before the raid—an allegation refuted by the federal report.

Last Friday, Hanrahan announced he was dropping all charges against the seven Panthers because they were based in part on incorrect ballistics evidence from the Chicago police crime lab.

Thursday, Chicago Police Superintendent James B. Conlist Jr. announced the demotions of Capt. David J. Purtell, director of the crime lab; Capt Harry Ervanian, director of the internal inspections division; and Deputy Superintendent John F. Mulchrone, in charge of the bureau of inspectional services and the man regarded as Conlisk's eventual successor.

Conlisk gave no reasons for the demotions, but they were viewed as being made because of the grand jury report, which had been expected to be critical of the police.

The report also:

—Accused the crime lab of "a serious lack of professionalism" in at least incorrectly identifying two shotgun shells as coming from Panther weapons. Actually, the report said, one deer slug was fired from the apartment, apparently by Clark.

—Said the coroner's office failed to seal the apartment after the raid, allowing thousands of persons to walk through it. It said, however, it was unlikely the Panthers had hidden relevent evidence.

—Charged the press with publishing "improper and grossly exaggerated stories."

Auto Workers to Elect Successor for Reuther

DETROIT (AP) — With the opening of auto-labor negotiations two months away, the International Executive Board of the United Auto Workers Union plans to meet Friday to elect a president to succeed Walter P. Reuther, who died a week ago today in a plane crash.

Funeral services for Reuther and his wife, May, who also died in the crash, were held Friday.

"The union must reorganize its leadership to move ahead with the policies and programs fashioned under the leadership of Walter Reuther," the executive board said in a statement a few hours after the funeral.

"The reorganized leadership," it continued, "will preserve the teamwork that always has characterized our union and maintain the solidarity of our ranks."

A simple memorial serivce for the Reuthers was held Friday in Detroit's Ford Auditorium. Eleven speakers at the non religious service characterized Reuther as "a giant among men" and "an architect of ieas."

The speakers included John Gardner, chairman of the Urban Coalition; Mrs. Coretta King; and Witney Young, head of the Urban League.

After the funeral, the bodies, in simple wooden caskets, were taken away for cremation. There was no funeral procession.

Contracts between the 1.6-million-member UAW and the Big Three automakers expire Sept. 14. Negotiations on a new contract are expected to begin in mid-July.

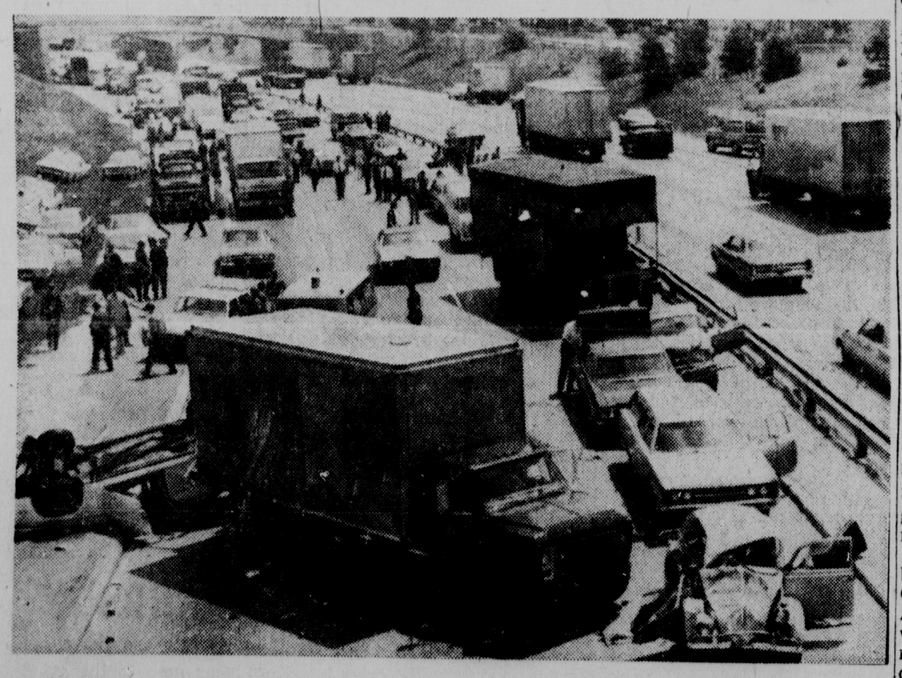

Considered front-runners for the presidency are Leonard Woodcock, 59, and Douglas Fraser, 53, both among seven vice presidents. Of the two, most subordinate union sources figure Woodcock the winner, but grieving board members themselves have given no indication.

Whoever is chosen will have a long row to hoe.

Company and union spokesmen and industry observers agreed before Reuther's death that this summer's negotiations will be the toughest since the recession year of 1958, perhaps the hardest since 1945, when contracts were signed only after a 115-day strike against General Motors.

New car sales and company profits are down sharply and General Motors Chairman James Roche has indicated that the industry will take a hard line at the bargaining table.

The UAW at its convention last month adopted a far-ranging—and expensive—set of demands.

EXPRESSWAY FATAL—This is the scene after a 10-car collision on the Long Island Expressway Friday killed the couple riding in the Volkswagen (lower R). In addition to the couple, identified as Neil and Marlene Fleury of Bohemia, L. I., four other people were injured. One of the injured is believed to be the Fleury's infant child. The accident tied up traffic for miles. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

WACs Have Stars Future; Promotion Set for Colonels

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The first two women to be nominated for the rank of general agreed today that it's mainly a point of honor.

"I don't know; I've never been a general before," said Col. Anna Mae Hays, chief of Army nurses, when asked whether her new rank would make a difference in her operations.

"The greatest thing is the honor they are paying us," said Col. Elizabeth P. Hoisington, director of the Women's Army Corps (WAC). "All our women are standing taller today."

President Nixon nominated the two lady colonels along with 86 male colonels for promotion to the rank of brigadier general late Friday. Although the action is routine, the nominations require the approval of the Senate.

Congress authorized the creation of women generals in 1967, but it has taken three years for the first of them to appear on the nominating list.

Col. Hoisington is 51; Col. Hays about the same age. Both joined the army in 1942, the first full year of America's participation in World War II, and both have been on duty since.

Col. Hoisington has never married. Col. Hayes' husband died in 1962. Under Army regulations, she would have had to resign from the Nursing Corps if she had had a child.

The director of the WACs was born the daughter of an Army colonel, in a family of six children, in the small town of Newton, Kan.

Her decorations include the Legion of Merit with one oak leaf cluster, the Bronze Star, the Army Commendation Medal, and the French Croix de Guerre with Silver Star.

Lantern Bedecked with Catskills Ferns Lights Up a Crafts Show of Rebirth

(INSIDE: More on this art of creative individuality)

Full Week's TV Listing From May 17 Thru May 23

EXQUISITELY BEAUTIFUL POTTERY, handmade leather bags and belts, delicately decorated eggs, hand-painted lamps, and wood-carvings of unusual texture demonstrate the skill of craftsmen of the Society of Brothers at Rifton. In a first for the area, their "with these hands" work is currently on display in Kingston's Artcraft Visual Center.

INTRICATELY DETAILED is this work of art, using a rough wooden slab as its canvas. Like something uncovered in a mythical fairy dell, it tells a story of love and brotherhood in its tiny figures and flowers, and in its star-bedappled perimeter.

They Create a World with Their Hands

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA

Many of today's young people, frustrated with the kind of life available to them, are choosing individual creativity over the assembly line, opting for man over machine. In the doing, they are dropping out of our computer culture to make a life with their own hands.

To them, such action is pertinent and meaningful because they are doing exactly what they want to do—a thing many of them contend they are not allowed to do. With their hands, they believe they can still create a world of their own despite a civilization dominated by automation. And with their own hands, they are bringing a renaissance of the American crafts, dead, or dormant, since the Industrial Revolution.

For today's young, the rebirth of the crafts has been a spontaneous "happening." But for the Society of Brothers of Rifton, these same ideals, viewpoints and creative insights have molded their lives since the end of World War I. The Brothers abandoned the world of the assemblyline and computer long ago in reaction to the destructive war spirit, threats of nuclear holocaust, and blatant materialism to create a life and a world of their own with their hands.

Out of Its Slumber

How well they have succeeded is evident in their vividly expressive arts and crafts work now on exhibit at the Artcraft Visual Center, 694 Broadway, Kingston. The exhibit represents the first show of arts and crafts for the Society of Brothers in this area . . . but it has been worth the long wait. Here is such startling beauty in ceramics, woodcarvings, metal and leather work, books and illustrations, lamp designs, and children's furniture and toys, that the show serves as the key to the resurgence of American crafts after nearly a century of slumber and neglect.

The Artcraft show is such a tribute to a life that is based on love and justice that it succeeds on its own in stimulating deep thought about the merits of such a life. Here is art that puts into perceptive focus how one unique group explores life, how they think, and how they work. And, since the exhibit includes the work of both children and adults of the Rifton community, it is a provocative springboard for discussion.

Anyone who sees this rare and stunningly beautiful exhibit must ask himself if these obstacle-surmounting craftsmen are dropouts from our civilization or a unified force pointing the way to a new direction. The show speaks eloquently for the fact that the Brothers have found fulfillment in creating something with their own hands. And the beauty of what they have created seems so necessary that a viewer reacts to this rebirth of the crafts as an answer to our life of disposables.

A Serene Message

More than any art exhibit we have viewed on our appointed rounds for for TEMPO, this one says infinitely more than any other to anyone concerned with the quality of life. In this age of anxiety, its message is one of solace and serenity. For the artists and craftsmen who have created it have proved their original determination to begin a new life—one that took them from a war-spirited Germany to repression under the Nazis, to hardship and poverty in the wilderness of Paraguay. Their faith and determination to surmount all these difficulties by eventually resettling here came from a sense of urgency to share with all a different way of life.

That sharing is the cornerstone of this show and what makes it so startling in its excellence. That justice and brotherhood produces moving art is the lesson one learns at Artcraft these days. This is an exhibit not to be missed. See it by all means between now and June 5.

A WALL LAMP that speaks more of the folk crafts than automation glows flowerlike in the Artcraft exhibit. Individual creativity has produced what an assembly line never could.

TOY TRUCKS made of wood test a child's creative imagination far more than battery-operated versions. Exhibited with the trucks in the Artcraft show: unusual woven and embroidered items, along with books that have been hand-printed, hand-illustrated and hand-bound.

A STURDY SMOOTHNESS is exemplified in the children's toys and furniture produced by the Society at Rifton. Made for active use, they tell much about the durability of the craftsmen who sell them under the banner of "Community Playthings."

AT TABLE PILED HIGH with organic and oriental cook books and other publications, Mrs. Arnold Projansky copies a recipe while her small daughter, Sarah, sits patiently in her lap. Reading table near old coal-and-wood-burning stove at rear of the Real Food Store in New Paltz is a popular attraction of the newly opened emporium.

ISABELLE LIIKALA, store's owner, stands in door of century-old barn she converted with the aim of marrying the old and the new. In a quiet back street court, store's trademark is the large Japanese cloth fish kite floating against building at upper right. Rock garden outside big glass windows is a favorite resting place for her dogs, Adam and Eve.

Food Is a Groove at Real Store

Leaving TV Dinner Syndrome Behind

The antiseptic air that all too often pervades emporiums of this type is totally missing here. Gone are the sterile enviorns that normally accompany the genre. Instead, the customer is treated to the visual delights such a store should exude. In fact, it looks like such a store should look but rarely does.

But, then, how could it miss? Down at the end of a little lane, recently rechristened Oop Alley, it is hemmed in by a quiet court of 100 years old, cream colored barns. The noise of street traffic never penetrates here, and the big stone walls, massive beams and ancient woods look exactly as they did when horses and buggies were hitched up outside.

To all this ancient charm and beauty has been added a new twist. A large Japanese cloth fish kite swims amid flowing yellow-and-green paper streamers from the second story of the store. It floats out over large glass windows looking out on a simple Japanese rock garden.

Yankee Caligraphy

The open double doors still reveal inner surfaces covered with penciled notations of sales of grain and hay from the 1860's but, to this old Yankee caligraphy, has been added a touch of modern color. Stapled atop the penciled ciphers are day-glo announcements. "WE NEED BAKERS" or "JAPANESE FOOD JUST IN," some say. Others assure customers they're "WELCOME," that "FRESH GINGER JUST ARRIVED," and that "ORGANIC BIODYNAMIC FLOUR ON SALE" is a specialty of the house.

The place with the new twist in the old health food store line is the REAL FOOD STORE in New Paltz. Recently opened behind and to the right of Bomze & Vanvlack's Drugstore at 58 Main Street in the very center of Paltz, it has an appeal that communicates immediately.

The first impression upon entering is one of a marriage of the old and the new. A tall, 11 foot high stone wall runs 40 feet in length, lending its support to the massive, natural, wooden ceiling beams. Originally this portion of the one-time barn was a stable for shoppers patronizing the dry goods store at the same address. The original hitching

As much of the old charm of another century as possible has been retained in renovating the former barn into a modern store.

BONNIE WING weighs natural brown rice from big burlap bag on scale at Paltz store. The shelves beyond proliferate with an inventory of bread made from Sourdough rye, goat's milk ice cream, Azuki beans, chick pea meals, and other natural foods.

MALKINE WITH LUTE IN FLORIDA

Back From France & Southern Tour

Only recently returned from France, Woodstock-based folksinger Sonia Malkine followed her European visit with a tour through Dixie.

While in France, she appeared with Mouloudji and other musical artists. An appearance there with Georges Brassens, which had to be cancelled due to prior commitments in this country, was the only disappointment of the foreign trip.

Her tour back her in the U.S. took her to the southern states where she sang on CBS-TV in Norfolk and NBC-TV in Florida. She appeared in concert at Old Dominion College, the University of Jacksonville, the Pocket Theatre in Atlanta, and was a featured performer at the Florida Folk Festival, which attracted some 10,000 people.

One of her songs a sea chantey she learned as a child and one that had been handed down in her family from her great-grandfather, aroused considerable interest at the Festival, held on the grounds of the Stephen Foster Memorial Park. The chantey's tune is identical to Foster's "Camptown Races," and some musical authorities believe it predates the song copyrighted by Foster.

Under the management of Folk Music, located in Woodstock, Sonia's schedule for May includes bookings in Connecticut and Nassau in the Bahamas.

Theatre Company-on-the-Hudson Won't Be in Summer Stock Mold

As originally published in Tempo last March, a new theater company in the Hudson Valley will begin operation this summer on the Bard College campus.

Called Theatre Company-on-the-Hudson, Inc., the new non-profit organization is now in the final stages of formation; will use Bard College's theater for its productions. The theater, renovated from a beautiful old coach house, seats 165 people; is equipped with a rehearsal hall, dressing rooms, offices and scene shops.

The company staff and actors will be housed in Blithewood, the mansion overlooking the east bank of the Hudson River. During the school year, the 100-year-old manor house is used as a dormitory.

Not Typical 'Stock'

The new company has announced a tentative schedule of plays that would seem to offer more interesting variety than the use fare of "stock theatre." In a 10-week season set to begin July 7 and run through the first week in September, the opening show on July 7 will probably be "The Seven Descents of Myrtle" by Tennesse Williams. Other highlights should include Edgar Lee Masters' "Spoon River Anthology" on July 21; "How's the World Treating You," August 4; Eugene O'Neill's "Long Day's Journey Into Night," Aug. 18; and the season's closing show, beginning Sept. 1 for one week, to be selected from The Promise, Saroyan's Get Away Old Man, or one or two original scripts by either Martin Duberman or Lonny Chapman.

Obviously, a non-commercial enterprise with the aim of preserving and presenting really good plays, including classics, revivals and original scripts, both by American and foreign authors. And to avoid many of the limitations of summer stock, an enterprise that will allow two weeks, rather than one, to aim at perfection and versatility.

From this first summer season, hopefully, will result not just another summer theatre, but a step towards the creation of a permanent repertory theatre to serve the entire Hudson Valley. In time, perhaps, a touring company will be added to take theatre to schools and communities throughout the area.

A Modest Budget

The company is now engaged in a fund raising campaign with a goal of $15,000 to cover the summer's operation. It is a modest budget as budgets go, but will assure excellent actors and actresses and the flexibility needed. Donations should be forwarded to Theatre Company-on-the-Hudson, Inc., Annandale-on-Hudson, N.Y. 12504.

The 13-member Board of Directors includes prominent names from Dutchess County and New York City, among them John Kander, composer of Zorba, Cabaret and other Broadway musicals; Lawrence Alpert, manager of New York City's Symphonic Choral Society; Dean Corbett, actor-director; John W. Hill, president of Hill-Knowlton; Charles Kakatskis, assistant professor of Drama at Bard; Reamer Kline, president of Bard; actress Elana Karam of Manhattan's Group Theatre; and others.

And, so, through the generosity of Bard College and with a fully professional (Equity) resident company, another addition to the area cultural scene has become a reality. There should be much enthusiasm locally for this undertaking, which is expected to make a significant contribution to the community as a special kind of theatre deriving its financial support from the community it serves.

Judging Their Own Humanity

Life is the "reward" for the survivor as two prisoners of war are penned in a German "Enclosure" on NET Journal, Monday, May 18 at 9 p.m. on Channel 17.

This French-made drama, which won first prize at the Cannes Film Festiva, is set in a fictional concentratior camp at Tatenberg during the spring of 1944. There, a German officer devises an insidious game to prove the camp's moral and physical domination over the men.

For 24 hours, two men are placed in an enclosure. The object is to encourage them to seek each other's life in the hope that the survivor will then be freed. Against this sadistic backdrop, these two men — a German political prisoner and a French Jew — must judge their own humanity.

Screen's Gen. Patton Directing All-Star 'Andersonville' Cast

"History repeats itself" is an old cliche, but if you compared the headlines of 1865 with the newspaper banners we read today, there would be surprisingly little difference.

Take Saul Levitt's highly acclaimed drama, "The Andersonville Trial," for example.

One of the reasons Lewis Freedman, a pioneer producer of television drama, selected this play as the premiere offering for the new Hollywood Television Theatre series is its timeliness.

"Day after day, in the newspapers and newcasts of this country, there are stories and ideas discussed which are reflected and dramatized in this play . . . everything from the trial for conspiracy to the responsibility of the soldier."

All-Star Cast

The drama, which will be broadcast by Channel 17 Sunday, May 17 at 8:30 p.m. is being directed by George C. Scott, who starred in the original stage version, and features an all-star cast, including John Anderson, Richard Basehart, Buddy Ebsen, Jack Cassidy, Lou Frizzell, Cameron Mitchell, Albert Salmi, William Shatner, Martin Sheen and Harry Townes.

" 'The Andersonville Trial' is not a period piece. Its theme is as ageless as man," Freedman said. "When this play was originally presented on Broadway in 1959, it was most pertinent because of the Eichmann trial in Israel. And, considering the events in Vietnam, it's just as important and timely today as it was then."

In "The Andersonville Trial," Henry Wirz (played by Richard Basehart) is a Confederate soldier whose responsible position as administrator of a Confederate prison camp at Andersonville, Georgia, led to his conviction by an Army court on charges of the deaths, by murder due to neglect, of more than 14,000 Union soldiers.

And like Cain, the first on record with the question, "Am I my brother's keeper?," Wirz contended during his military trial that he bore no guilt in this matter. He believed himself relieved of personal responsibility because he was performing his duty. He was simply obeying the orders of his superiors.

"The Andersonville Trial" is the first four full length dramas to be presented by the Hollywood Television Theater over the Public Broadcasting Service network this season. Originating from station KCET-TV in Los Angeles, the new series is being supported by a grant from the Ford Foundation.

DIRECTOR GEORGE C. SCOTT, right, talks with William Shatner, center, and Richard Basehart during "The Andersonville Trial" filming. The 2½-hour TV version of "Trial" will be aired on National Educational Television this Sunday, May 17.

Paltz Artist-Craftsman a Winner

Competition is always intense for the Southern Tier Arts and Crafts Show and Sale. This year marked the seventh annual such show at the famed Corning Glass Center up in Corning, N.Y. and the jury this time around was composed of an exceptional group of illustrious professionals.

The only local artist or craftsman to be chosen to have work exhibited in the show was Allen K. Littlefield of New Paltz. The show, which closed this week after a four-day run, was open to the public free of charge.

Twenty-one exhibitions received special jury awards for outstanding competence in design and execution. Works by some 200 artists and craftsmen were on display, covering a vareity of media including pottery, weaving, woodworking, and painting.

Jurists included Dr. Laurence Schmeckebier, professor of fine arts and dean of the School of Art at Syracuse University; Rose Slivka, editor-in-chief of Craft Horizons Magazine, New York City; and Frans Wildenhain, ceramicist, School for American Craftsmen, Rochester Institute of Technology.

The Southern Tier show was sponsored by the Corning Branch, American Association of University Women in cooperation with Corning Museum of Glass and the Glass Center "to bring the best in current creativity to the people of the area, and to awaken and encourage new artistic talent."

Most items on exhibit were for sale with a percentage of the proceeds on all items sold benefiting the local AAUW's Scholarship Fund. The large crowds attending the four-day event included many families and school groups.

Gets Title Role

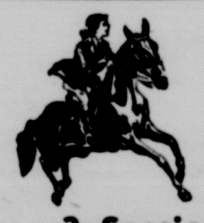

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Brenda Sykes, who co-stars with Elliott Gould in "Getting Straight," will play the title role in "Shelia" for Stonehenge productions.

Where do they go from here?

Why not all the way—with US

These days high school graduation isn't an ending—it's a beginning—the beginning of a higher education for any young person with desire and ability. We can help—with a low-cost education loan. Come in and inquire.

A lot of diplomas have started with US

PETER O'TOOLE makes friends with a schoolboy in scene from "Goodbye, Mr. Chips," the beautifully mounted musical version of James Hilton's novel, now playing in Rosendale. O'Toole's the lonely, stodgy schoolmaster of the title, whose charming young wife (Petula Clark) makes him the beloved teacher of generations of English schoolboys.

A DAZZLINGLY BRILLIANT EPISODE in "War and Peace" is this dramatic scene of a futile duel. The Soviet film which brings Tolstoi's epic novel of the Napoleonic invasion of Russia to vivid and spectacular life, is the current attraction at Kingston's Community Theater.

MOVIES

The Kremlin Letter

In "The Kremlin Letter," now playing at Kingston's Mayfair, director-writer John Huston has gone against the "new wave" of spy films and created a movie rich in exotic backgrounds. But it suffers to some extent from the fact that it is impoverished in philosophical speculation.

Avoiding the "new wave," however, has not made "Letter" the least bit old-fashioned. For Huston has used the film as a canvas for painting his impressions of the world today. But he's getting older and his perspecitive is somewhat limited. Maybe he knows it and tried to make up for it with a little too much depravity and tastelessness.

Otherwise, it's a lively spy yarn — and often entertaining. The film is based on the novel of the same name and has the required anti-hero (Patrick O'Neal) and the amoral string-puller at the top (Richard Boone). Fine actors both, they keep the film moving along at a fast pace and jammed with intriguing incidental detail. Some times so much so that it becomes confusing plotwise.

Variety of Characters

There's a very large cast in this story of Russian Secret Police and U.S. Navy Intelligence, and many of the performances are appealing. Bibi Anderson is good as a neurotic and Barbara Parkins smoulders as a siren should. Max Von Sydow is the perfect puritan; star O'Neal as suave as they come; Dean Jagger adds a touch of dignity; George Sanders plays his part strictly for camp; co-star Boone is cruel as the spy trainer; and Nigel Green is as appropriately bizarre as one could wish. All that, added to the fact that Orson Welles is also on hand, and you've got a story about trying to recover the Kremlin Letter from Russia and Peking. The letter? It's actually a treaty between the U.S. and Russia to bomb Red China's nuclear installations and, if it fell into the wrong hands, there'd naturally be a world war. (Keep the youngsters home if you object to violence and depravity.)

War and Peace

Before "War and Peace" opened at Kingston's Community, we beat the publicity drums in its behalf — assuring readers it would be gigantic, stupendous and enormous. After seeing Part I, we went on record to state our belief that one of the greatest novels ever written had been turned into one of the greatest films ever made.

Currently, Part II of this film, the first faithful screen treatment of Leo Tolstoy's epic novel, is unrolling at the Community. It is of staggering dimension. Never in the hisotry of film making has there been a feature encompassing so much on so many levels.

"War and Peace" cost $100,000,000 to produce; took five years in the filming. And never before has the catch phrase "cast of thousands" been as meaningful. In the staging of the battle of Borodino alone, 120,000 soldiers were employed. The cast also includes 30 of the finest Soviet stage and screen stars.

Incredible Sets

The sets are incredible. Some 103 outdoor sets were constructed, depicting the streets of Moscow and St. Petersburg, the old Kremlin and variety of battle locales of the Napoleonic era. Another 69 outdoor sets were needed to simulate the gardens and park of the 19th century nobility, plus remote villages and complete battlefields. More than 10 indoor sets were used, including a ballroom as large as the largest ballroom in the Winter Palace or in Leningrad's Hermitage. The wealth of props includes paintings, art treasures, weapons and books — all borrowed from over 40 Soviet museums and libraries. It took dozens of businesses and factories working full time for five years to supply costumes and equipment, including Russian, French, Austrian, Italian and Polish military costumes, and more than 2,000 separate and distinct civilian costumes of all strata of Russian society from Tsar to Peasant.

So authentic is this movie that is deserves the title of one of the greatest ever. If you missed Part I, see Part II on its own. It can stand alone on its spectacle as a feature in itself. But hurry! It's closing next Tuesday. (Absolutely for everybody, old and young.)

Goodbye, Mr. Chips

Warm and completely captivating, here's a really happy motion picture that will make you feel better for seeing it. Now on screen at the Rosendale Theatre, it's a musical drama that brings unashamed romance back to the movies.

It's an updated version of James Hilton's celebrated novel which develops the role of "Mrs. Chips" and introduces musical numbers. The picturesque English countryside has been superbly captured by the photography, and there is a feeling of authenticity and credibility to this tender romance. The costumes create a wonderful sense of the periods covered, and the characterization could not be bettered. Peter O'Toole makes "Mr. Chips" a very human and lovable person in a memorable performance. Petula Clark comes through with distinction as his wife, and O'Toole's real-life wife, Sian Phillips, gives a remarkable comedy cameo as a zany actress of the twenties. Michael Redgrave is fine as the headmaster.

All in all, the film could well start a trend back to the romantic in the cinema. (Rated for General Audiences of all ages.)

He's Booking Russell, Grable and Fontaine

He comes to his new position here in the Hudson Valley via Tinsel Town, U.S.A., more commonly known on the map as Hollywood, Calif. Backed by a high gear organization, he'll be helping to offer area audiences a roster of plays featuring such top film and stage stars as Ray Milland, Betty Grable, Jane Russell, Hugh O'Brien and Joan Fontaine. Along with the stars, he'll be working on plans to produce such popular comedies as "Born Yesterday," and such current Broadway hits as "The Boys in the Band."

He's Peter O'Rourke, newly appointed general manager of Hyde Park Playhouse, now owned by Eddie Bracken Ventures, Inc. The youthful veteran of the theatre and entertainment world has arrived here from the West Coast, where his multi-producition talents were used extensively by the three major TV networks. With a technical and administrative background, he has been associated with North Shore Music Theatre in Massachusetts, Seattle Repertory Theatre, West Coast nightclub and theatrical presentations, and children's theatre at San Francisco State University. A graduate of that university with a BA in Drama, he also holds the MA in Drama from California's Fresno State College.

Originally from Boston, O'Rourke met his new boss, actor-producer Eddie Bracken, several years ago when he served as company manager of the national company of "You Know I Can't Hear You When the Water's Running," in which Bracken was then starring. Bracken feels he has an "ideal manager" for the Hyde Park Playhouse in O'Rourke.

New Heights of Success

And, as far as O'Rourke's concerned, he's confident the 1970 summer season of package productions he's booking into the theatre across from the famed Vanderbilt Mansion will bring the Playhouse new heights of success, as well as additional tourist business to the area.

With the actual opening date to be announced soon, but set for the last week in June, it looks like exciting summer season at the Dutchess County theatre. The Playhouse, on Vanderbilt Lane off Route 9 in Hyde Park, will benefit from the fact that it is part of the rapidly expanding corporation which now bears Bracken's name. It will provide its fair share of the part of the summer theatrical operations division of Barcken Ventures, specializing in leisure-time and entertainment fare.

PETER O'ROURKE

Return Via Art To Gaslite Days

The art of Currier and Ives always provides a walk back through yesterday. Back to home weaving, candle making, flickering gaslights, horses and surreys, wooden sidewalks and streets paved with cedar blocks.

Back to an occasional runaway horse, a reckless bicycle rider, a bright steam fire engine charging down the street. Back to hoop rolling, sleigh riding, cracker-barrel philosophers and soap box politicians. Back to mouth-watering penny candy and bicycles built for two.

An excellent Currier and Ives art exhibit — one of the most all-encompassing to be shown in this area — is being planned for May 23 and 24. It's slated from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Holiday Inn, Route 17K, Newburgh. Sponsored by the Women's Republican Club of the Town of Newburgh, it'll offer the nostalgic art of yesterday for the small donation of only $. for those 16 years and over.

Drive down and browse a while and you'll find it's really possible to walk through yesterday with Currier and Ives.

Endless Sculptural Environments Made for Exploring

There was a decided emphasis on decorative outdoor sculpture on the campus of Ulster County Community College this week. A special event in the form of a lawn sculpture show went on view last Tuesday afternoon, and it proved to be a spring attraction of high interest.

The display included work by students in the Three Dimensional Design studio class. The striking collection had been especially created for outdoor showing; contained environmental designed sculptures that lent themselves well to placement on the campus lawn.

In many moods, they conveyed the varied conditions of touch, smell and kinetics. The audience attending the event seemed to enjoy to the hilt the chance to explore the endless sculptural environments.

There's More Indoors

The lawn-mounted show was tied in with the Seventh Annual Student Art exhibition at the Stone Ridge college. The indoor portion of the show, now on display in the Visual Arts Gallery of the John Burroughs Science Building, will be on view through June 30. Fittingly timed to coincide with the end of the academic year, the Annual Student Exhibit is being presented by the Department of Visual Arts. It is open to the public from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday, and from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Fridays through the end of June.

"Artist As Student" is the theme of the show and, like its outdoor sculptural counterpart, the indoor exhibit exemplifies how greatly the art program at UCCC has grown since the college first came into being. The amount of student work — and it diversity — has increased over the years.. so much so that the exhibit will be divided into two consecutive parts. Painting, Drawing and Three Dimensional Design are on view now through June 7. Advertising, Graphics and Two Dimensional Design will take over from June 9 to June 30.

Talent Abounds

The youthful talent on display by these student-artists says almost all that needs to be said about why art education is such and important part of educational development in college. The work on view is visual evidence of progress and accomplishment among UCCC artists. Given art problems that strive at freeing the creative powers from convention, students have shown perception in use of materials, space and textures. A heightening awareness and creativity is apparent in this student exhibit.

Some 150 students are enrolled in UCCC's Visual Arts two-year transfer program. Some are art majors, but others are concentrating their training on nursing, physical education, engineering, humanities, business and science.

For that reason, the show is even more amazing for the varied, sensitive and inventive works on display. Make a concerted effort to see both segments of the show — and we think you'll agree.

Valley Theatre Opening May 22

Three one-act plays will make up the first production of the new Valley Experimental Theatre group in Shandaken.

The plays selected for the debut performance offer a wide vareity of entertainment. They include "A Marriage Proposal" by Anton Chekov, "Talk to Me Like the Rain" by Tennessee Williams, and "Mask of Angeles" by Notis Pryalys.

Cast in the Chekov play are the Rev. Ralph Darmstadt, Janet Smithers and Alonzo Van Wagner Jr. Appearing in the Williams play will be Debbie Dramstadt and Allen Dutcher. The "angels" cast includes Dorothea Munch, the Rev. Ralph Darmstadt, Marianne Joedicke, Lorraine Frano and Jesse Smithers.

An enthusiastic group of thespians, the little theater group has attracted a membership of teenagers and oldsters alike. Tickets for the first production are available from any cast member at $2.50 each.

There's New Faces In 'Small Faces'

NEW YORK (AP) — Small Faces, once a teen-rave group in England, had a personnel shake-up and went underground for awhile. Now, in America, Small Faces tours and sells records as Small Faces. However, in England, to prevent anyone thinking the new group is the old group, it's called Faces.

The new lead singer, Rod Stewart, formerly of the Jeff Beck Group, also now is a solo performer, recording for a different company than records his new group.

The Minx

Jan Sterling stars in this film, now playing at the Orpheum in Saugerties. Plot revolves around a multi-million-dollar-corporate merger, wherein a trio of temptresses are used on an orgiastic weekend to influence big-business decisions.

All of which means, of course, that this is strictly adult fare. In fact, it seems to put erotica on film to prove no point beyond the fact that erotica is erotica ad infinitum and a nauseum. A real "fun-drama" for those who revel in lusty, busty doings, but nothing left over for those movie-goers who's like to get away from bed doings and more bed doings. (Restricted for the younger generation.)

Midnight Cowboy

A smash hit is this fresh-looking, splashy but sensitive, alternatly hilarious and sad movie. Back for a rerun, it's now playing at the 9-W Drive-In locally; offers memorable peformances by Jon Voight and Dustin Hoffman as loners and hustlers in New York.

A beautiful study of the gap between the glittering dream and reality, it has fine supporting performances, excellent use of score, and overall, exciting direction. Catches the mood of the New York inhabited by losers, and utilizes to the hilt the power of film to dazzle the eye and strike at the nerves. Truly excellent adult fare, but simply not for children under 16.

The Good, The Bad And the Ugly

On the double bill at the 9-W Drive-In is this Italian made western set in the American Southwest at the time of the Civil War. A gunfighter (Clint Eastwood), a Mexican outlaw (Eli Wallach) and a homicidal criminal (Lee Van Cleef) are all on a search for the hiding place of a stolen Army cash box.

The struggle among the three men to outwit each other becomes a long succession of sadistic incidents, torture and killings as others take up the hunt for the money's whereabouts. A bizarre score and unsparing photography accentuate the film's brutality. (Rated for adult eyes only.)

She'll Reveal the Innermost You

Looking to the stars this year, after taking astrology as its theme, will be the 35th edition of the annual Stone Ridge Library Fair. Since the fair will be held in June (June 20, to be exact, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on the local Library grounds), the 1970 version of the long-lived fair gets a new name for the occasion — The Gemini Fair.

But there'll be no time for yawning at this dawning of the Age of Gemini. There'll be too much to do and enjoy to feel a state of lethargy coming on. As the main fund-raising event of the library's year, all the stops will be pulled out to make the attractions varied. Individual astrology charts will be a main feature, and pretty Dova Anderson will reveal your innermost you through the charts during the run of the fair.

The handwriting analysis booth should be fun, as should the mounds of food, both exotic and heartily homemade. There'll be fascinating book collections, antiques, toys for the kids, garden supplements (you can even carry home a handmade, squirrelproof bird feeder), a carousel for youngsters, and a chance to create your own individual work of art at the art booth.

Mark your calendar now, even though fair date is more than a month away. That way you won't forget to make the scene at the Stone Ridge Library, just eight miles down Route 209 from Kingston, on June 20 when The Gemini Fair takes over for a day of star gazing and bargain grazing.

Bracken in Flesh

"Bracken's World," the NBC Friday night drama series about a Hollywood movie studio, will have a Bracken next season. This tycoon character, owner of the works, never was portrayed before. Leslie Nielsen, whose law enforcement segment of "The Bold Ones" is being discontinued, will play Bracken.

BARBARA PARKINS smoulders in a manner appropriate to such a sultry beauty in "The Kremlin Letters," the spy film now playing at Kingston Mayfair theater.

DUSTIN HOFFMAN is superlative as the sickly, lonely "Ratso" in "Midnight Cowboy," the smash hit movie back for a rerun in the area at the 9-W Drive-In currently. He's also the star of "John and Mary," now playing at Woodstock's Tinker Street Cinema.

FREEMAN ADS BRING RESULTS

CAROL DORFMAN reads latest announcements on doors of 1860's vintage.

Leaving TV Dinner Syndrome

rings are still embedded in the old stone wall, but today's buyers are more interested in avoiding the TV dinner syndrome, than in the new prints. French flowers and ribbons once sold at No. 58.

Now the stable space is occupied by rows of free-standing, natural wood shelves dotted by colorful packages and special notes about many of the products, including suggested recipes for the more exotic. And what exotic procuts they seem to the typical supermarket shoppers!

Most of them are organic, naturally grown without synthetic chemical sprays or preservatives. But not so exotic as they seem — since they are the foods our grandparents ate... before bread turned smooth and bland and tea became instant.

Unusual Inventory

A peristent shopper at the REAL FOOD STORE will find six kinds of bread from Sourdough rye alone, along with whole wheat date and nut. There's raw milk cheese, goat's milk ice cream, fertilized chicken eggs, chamomile and sarsaparilla tea, fresh mangos, papaya, pumpkin seeds, and even spring water. And the list rolls on: eight kinds of honey including one "from the tropical flowers in remote Central American Jungles," vegetable and biodegradeable soaps, cold pressed sunflower, sesame, saflower and soy cooking oils, vegetable juices, Jerusalem artichoke noodles, raw cashews and Azuki beans.

And who could resist stone ground flours, dried fishes, sea weeds, Mu Tea, black sesame seeds, candies made with rose hips and carob? Or six kinds of pure peanut butter (none of which is extended with hard vegetable oils as are most commercial brands)? Who would not be intrigued with a table featuring samples of wild edibles native to our own area and currently in season? Try the mustard blossoms and you'll find they taste a lot like broccoli when steamed or cooked with a little water, for just three short minutes.

More wild edibles of the Catskills should appear soon since a sign invites local wild food gatherers to bring in samples of what they have turned up in area woods and fields, along with their favorite recipes.

Another unusual attraction of the store is a table near the rear piled with organic and oriental cooks books, ecology publications, organic farming magazines, and other reading material. They are not for sale, but customers, lured by a friendly sign that invites them to sit and copy recipes, often do so on the scratch paper provided.

The craking Mill

A beautiful, old coal-and-wood range adds to the decor, as does a small grain cracking mill, where shoppers busily crank away and grind their own chick pea meal.

The store is owned by Isabelle Liikala, a young Mississippian who came to New Paltz by way of Manhattan. She says that each day brings several young people into the store with the simple statement: "I know I'm eating junk and I want to change. Where do I start?"

It's a question she enjoys answering since the idea behind her store was centered in a concern for young people who were unconscious or naive about their diets. But she had more in mind than simply providing an alternative to local supermarkets. She hoped to be able to instruct customers on how to cook sensitively.

Health food stores usually stress a theme of rescuing the human body from the internal pollution of the synthetic and denatured foods so prevalent today. But Isabelle designed The Real (Natural) Food Store to appeal and communicate with the new breed of young person who believes that "food is a groove," and that food as untampered with raw material is basic to a creative, natural life style. By providing cooking techniques that go far beyond the TV dinner syndrome, and by furnishing gourmet products (many of which cannot be found outside of New York City), she has given the store appeal for the young just learning to cook, and for the more mature buyers who is far from an inexperienced cook.

Gourmet cooks will find her ready, willing and able to order any favorite product, as long as the ingredients are pure. Longhaired customers get help in looking up recipes for Okinomi pancakes in the Zen Cookbook.

"It's pure pleasure," she says, "to see a young person turned on by food for a change. If a person really cares about what he eats and what he takes into his body, he'll naturally evolve away from all the drugs our culture enocurages."

And one thinks, too, about that $60 grocery bill on seeing her place a small soy bean on a shelf next to the Mung beans as a simple demonstration. Says Isabelle: "This method can produce fresh bean sprouts every three days for pennies — and they really pick up an omelette or a salad."

In so many ways, the store attempts to recover that old time community sense one found in the local country store. And, says Isabelle, "Food is such a basic necessity and pleasure of living, it's a good way to extend yourself to people." She is proud of the fact that old-timers in the area have dropped by to exchange ideas with younger patrons from their vast experience in growing and cooking food. And the youngsters listen intently and exchange ideas in return.

Local Suppliers

For the future, several local organic gardeners will be supplying the store with home grown produce, but Isabelle would like to hear from more such gardeners, as well as organic chicken farmers; asks them to stop by or get in touch.

Witching Hour Brings 'Spirits' in Concert

American music, in its tumultuous lifetime, has taken many forms; been conveyed to its listeners under an almost endless variety of conditions. Those who enjoy music have found it in concert halls and paviliions, ballrooms and nightclubs, outdoor amphitheatres and football fields. From the martial music and jazz of street parades to the electronic developments that have moved it into a dairy farmer's field to be heard by more than 400,000 at one time, music can be enjoyed anywhere and at any time.

The present generation of "new jazz" fans, however, should find a whole new experience in the midnight concert slated tonight, Saturday, May 16 at the Academy Theatre in New Paltz. Like those who pioneered New Orleans jazz, the musicians who have combined talents for tonight's witching hour concert, are pioneers to the present generation of jazz fans.

The group is Nature's Spirits and, while the music is always uppermost, the musicians who play together in Spirits have utilized multi-media to its best advantage. Often their concerts incorporate dance or poetry or another art to accompany and emphasize and blend with the program.

Multi-Talented Group

Featured in the Nature's Spirits concert tonight at the Academy in Paltz will be Michael Berardi, equally adept on guitar, tenor saxophone and vocalizing. Multi-talented, too, is Mark Whitecage, who plays alto saxophone, flute and basset horn. Mario Pavone holds forth on bass and metal clarinet, while David Shaw handles the drums. Augmented by Eddie McDonald on tenor saxophone and Richard Youngstein on bass, Spirits often allows friends to sit in: will probably do so tonight.

All of which should make for a late night-early morning concert of interest — one that offers new style jazz, along with an experimental number in which Youngstein will read and excerpt from "Wind in the Willows," to be accompanied by flutes.

Donation at the door will be $1.50 for this unique program by a top group — a group that has played hard enough and long enough together they can seemingly pre-guess every musical move. In a style that's natural, easy and comfortable — and all their own — the musicians in Nature's Spirits know things are changing and are going to keep changing.

That makes them listenable, but hard to label. Rooted in rock and jazz, their music has much to say in its spontaneity. In short, NS is programmed to grab an audience and hold them. If you're a night person, you'll want to hear them at midnight tonight at the Paltz movie house.

New for Fall on TV

Playwright Neil Simon, currently represented on Broadway by three hit shows, will have his name among the credits of two new situation comedy series on ABC-TV in the fall, although he will not write the scripts. The shows are "Barefoot in the Park" and "The Odd Couple," based on earlier Simon stage successes.

JILL SNOW

Talented Winner Cast in 'Oliver'

A pigtailed charmer from Lake Katrine is carving an early career for herself in the area entertainment field. Jill snow, nine-year-old daughter of the Stanley Snows of Lake Katrine, will appear in the gala musical, "Young Oliver," slated at Poughkeepsie High School on the evenings of Friday and Saturday, May 22 and 23. The production, produced and staged by choreographers Estelle and Alfonso, and director dramatically by James Britt and vocally by Charles Mack, will benefit the Mid-Hudson Regional Ballet Company.

Pert and talented Jill was the winner of last summer's Dutchess County Fair Talent Search; has followed up that success with an active season. She appeared this winter in "The Christmas Story," presented in Saugerties and Poughkeepsie, and this spring in the Estelle and Alfonso Olympics in Dutchess County.

A student of ballet, tap, acrobatics, jazz, baton and voice at the Estelle and Alfonso Studio in Poughkeepsie, Jill attends the Lake Katrine School: is a fourth grader.

POTPOURRI

By JOAN L. WOINOSKI

A host of music-lovers shared limelight with Mt. St. Alphonsus' Collarmen one recent Sunday, via oodles of audience-participation. There was hand-clappin', feet stompin', side-slappin', body twistin' at benefit concert in Coleman School as onlookers tried to keep in-step-with-the-scores.

It's been written 'bout The Collarmen: "They wear collars, but not so tight as to choke off wonder of life and desire to capture it in song." And, at the Sunday concert noted, it was obvious those collars were very "relaxed" as were the vocal cords behind them. Variety being the keynote, tunes travelled a free-scope trail: "Smile a Little Smile for Me" "Yesterday When I Was Young" ..."Leavin' on a Jet plane" "Time" (a favorite at Wallkill Prison) and tunes turned into household humming by such warblers as Glenn Campbell, Peter, Paul and Mary, Sammy Davis Jr.; along with that Andy Williams' hit, "For Once in My Life," which sounds great whether sung by soloist wearin' sweater or Roman Collar. As for "When the Saints Go Marchin' In," everyone knew, eventually, they'd get around to doing somethin' ''religious.'' Especially effective was their version of "Spring," written by Collarman Norman Bennett's father and sung by Frater Bennett. Of course, he comes by his musical skill naturally: his father's a jazz musician and his mother sings and plays drums in the band.

Four members of group — Fraters Thomas Brooks, Martin Marquez, Stephen Robach, and Norman Bennett — recently took part in one of the many area take-offs on New York's "1776." Friars at Esopus Seminary did-it-up-brown with their musical version, "Spirit of 76;" and you ain't seen nothin' yet, if you missed it!

Acting was strictly blue chip, especially James Wallace as John Adams; Ron Bonneau as Ben Franklin; Mark Scheffler as John Dickinson; Francis Gargani as Richard Henry Lee; George Rich as Thomas Jefferson.

Award-winning performances were given also by James Gilmour as Abigail Adams, and the frater (not listed in program) who was cast as Mrs. Thomas Jefferson and who, we just discovered, played dual role as Richard Henry Lee, as well as serving as co-director and choreographer. Those two "revolutionary" portrayals, you wouldn't believe. Man, what a little makeup, a blonde wig, and fashionable gown will do for a guy!

P.S. The play was a W-O-W, but oh, how we'd loved to have seen those REHEARSALS!

Speakin' of 76, Pete Mathews of Colonial City Carpet Company saw the real McCoy in New York and the way he got his tickets was as merry as the music. Seems there was a beautiful damsel fastened in chains, a key, a lock, and wonder how he'll get tickets to "Coco?"

Talk 'bout coincidences: Hurley's Marianne Davis Darrow, wife of bank executive H. VanWyck Darrow, was dining recently at Kingston Chinese Restaurant and ordered fortune cookies. One read; "You will be called on to fill position of high honor and responsibility." Now THAT was a right smart cookie; Mrs. D. is one of two successful candidates elected last week to Kingston Board of Education. Van could've told her that, but then he'd credit forecast to ESP. Extra "Soul" at the Poll, that is!
